PRESIDENT, TOLD WAR BILL CAN'T PASS, FIGHTS ON

Demands Talk with G. O. P. Leaders.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 17.—President Roosevelt was not convinced today when his leaders in congress informed him his war policy program was blocked hopelessly for the present session.

The President demanded that Republican senate leaders be brought to the White House for a conference on the possibility of some move looking toward repeal of the arms embargo provision of the neutrality act.

By a vote of 12 to 11, the foreign relations committee last week postponed until the next session of congress all proposals to amend the neutrality law.

Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.], who attended today's White House conference with Vice President John N. Garner, Speaker William B. Bankhead of the house, and Representative Sam Rayburn [D., Tex.], house majority leader, refused to discuss the President's war policy program except to say that there had been no decision on anything.

Agree to Attend Parley.

Later it was learned Barkley had told the President the situation respecting his neutrality act revision program was hopeless. The President refused to accept Barkley's appraisal of the situation and requested that Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader, and Senator Warren R. Austin [R., Vt.], assistant minority leader, be brought to the White House for a further conference. McNary and Austin agreed to go to the White House after a canvass of minority sentiment, probably on Wednesday.

McNary has made reservations on a train leaving for Oregon the night of July 29 and will tell the President, according to his colleagues, that it would be foolish to keep congress here any longer. Although three or four of the twenty-three Republicans, representing eastern seaboard states, are sympathetic with the President's foreign policy, the others oppose any revision of the neutrality act now.

Partisanship Charged.

Some Republican senators suspected that the President, in demanding to confer with their leaders, was seeking further to fix responsibility for defeat of his war policy program. Already charges of partisan opposition have emanated from the White House and the President is said to be anxious to make a national political issue of his proposal to repeal the arms embargo. He plans to make a "fireside" chat on the subject within a week or so and later may take the issue "to the country" on a trip to the Pacific.

The Republicans, however, said they could answer any charge of partisan opposition by calling the roll of Democrats opposed to the administration's program.

Foes Confident of Position.

While opposition leaders are confident a motion to discharge the foreign relations committee would be defeated overwhelmingly, they assert such a motion cannot be voted upon without thorough debate. They say they would welcome such an opportunity of presenting their side of the question to the people.

Their position is that any change in the neutrality act for the avowed purpose of assisting England and France in case of war in Europe would amount to taking sides and inevitably would involve this country in war.

BLAST AND FIRE SINK SHIP; 108 ABOARD SAVED

San Francisco, Cal., July 18 [Tuesday].—(AP)—The marine department of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce announced early today it had information the Japanese freighter Bokuyo Maru had sunk in the Pacific after a fire and explosion, and that an oil tanker had taken off 108 of the 110 persons aboard. Two crew members whose names were not given are unaccounted for.

The Bokuyo Maru sailed from Los Angeles on July 2.

The department said the information was contained in a private message to the Associated Oil company, whose tanker Associated reported it picked up the survivors.

Position of the 8,619 gross ton freighter was given as 1,125 miles due east of Yokohama.

40 Hitler Army Vans Enter Danzig

MEN IN UNIFORM DRIVE TRUCKS TO SECRET SPOT

Rush Into City from East Prussia.

FREE CITY OF DANZIG, July 17.—(AP)—Forty military supply trucks from East Prussia entered Danzig tonight.

Gen. Edmund Ironside, who is inspecting Polish defenses. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

The big gray vans—locked up tight—sped into the city in close formation from the East Prussian city of Marienburg, near the Danzig border. They were driven by men in uniform. The machines, counted by observers on the Marienburg-Danzig highway, went to unrevealed destinations in the Free City.

The truck train reached Danzig shortly before the arrival here of the Nazi district leader, Albert Forster, who returned by airplane from conferences with Adolf Hitler at Munich and Berchtesgaden.

Forster hurried to his home without commenting on reports he had brought back a "definite plan" for the annexation of Danzig by Germany.

BRITISH MISSION IN POLAND

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, July 17.—The first steps to implement the British-Polish mutual assistance pact and forge an effective weapon, ready for war, were taken in Warsaw today when a British military mission headed by Maj. Gen. Sir Edmund Ironside, inspector general of British overseas forces, arrived by airplane. The British and the Poles immediately began a series of staff talks which will continue for five days.

The British mission, it was declared, will have access to Poland's jealously guarded military secrets. It will inspect materials and weapons of Polish manufacture which no foreigner has seen. The weapons include a new type of bombing plane, new tanks, and possibly a new anti-aircraft gun.

The Britons also will visit Poland's newly created industrial region in south central Poland, near the cities of Kielce and Sandomierz. Heretofore foreigners have not been admitted to these factories which have been removed from the industrial region of upper Silesia in order to protect the sources of Poland's vital war supplies from sudden German attacks.

Examines Defense Problems.

The British military mission desires to examine the complex problems of Polish defense. The problems include:

1. The defense of the Polish corridor, thus assuring Poland's outlet to the sea.

2. If the corridor has to be abandoned how are supplies to be conveyed to Poland by Great Britain and France.

3. What sort of strategy is best suited for warfare in western Poland where there are no permanent fortifications. This problem involves the composition of the Polish army with its emphasis on cavalry.

Expect Attack Before October.

4. The use of tanks and motorized units. The Poles are mindful of the difficulties which will be encountered by an attacking German army in a country of few roads and on terrain which becomes a vast bog after the first autumn rains. For this reason there is a belief in Poland that the Germans will attack, if they are going to attack at all, before October in order to make best use of their mechanized army.

5. The defense of Upper Silesia, which borders on Germany. It is a mining and iron working region and is of extreme importance to Poland.

5 Die as Train Smashes Auto in Will County

Two men, two women, and a little girl were killed yesterday afternoon when the Chicago and Alton railroad's Old Glory Limited struck an automobile outside of Elwood, nine miles south of Joliet in Will county. The automobile, a seven passenger sedan, was being operated as a bus between Joliet and Wilmington.

Arrow points to scene of crash.

The dead, all from Wilmington, were A. J. Gadberry, 65 years old, driver of the car; his son, Ray, 35; the latter's wife, Alice; their daughter, Peggy, 5, and Miss Bertha McQueen, 65.

How the Crash Occurred.

En route from Wilmington to Joliet on highway 66, Gadberry swung west on a gravel road to make a customary stop for passengers at Elwood. When he reached the crossing, the car was struck by the train, south bound for St. Louis.

There were no witnesses. The train stopped 1,000 feet down the tracks, after carrying the wreckage for several hundred feet and hurling the victims to either side of the tracks.

The crossing is protected only by a wooden sign. Railroad officials reported the train was traveling about forty-five miles an hour. They said the bell was rung and the whistle was blown.

A quirk of fate brought death to Ray Gadberry, his wife, and his daughter. Because of rain he was unable to go to work on a WPA job. So the Gadberrys decided to take a ride with Ray's father.

Five Die in Michigan Crash.

Paw Paw, Mich., July 17.—[Special.]—Five members of a Kalamazoo, Mich., family were killed today when their automobile collided with a truck and trailer near here. The dead were Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Remington, their son and daughter-in-law, and the elder Remington's granddaughter, Roberta Kurtz, 2 years old.

BRITISH OCEAN PLANES WILL REFUEL TWICE IN AIR ON HOP TO CANADA

LONDON, July 17.—(AP)—The first British trans-Atlantic airmail service will be inaugurated Aug. 5, informed sources said today.

A regular weekly schedule, it was said, will be inaugurated by the flying boat Cabot on that date on a flight from Southampton to New York via Botwood, Newfoundland, and Montreal. The Cabot is to be refuelled in mid-air at Foynes, Ireland, and again at Botwood.

A tentative schedule provides for the British service to operate alternately with that of Pan-American Airways. The British planes will leave New York on Wednesdays and Southampton on Saturdays. The American craft, already operating the air mail route, depart in opposite directions on the same days.

Corrigan Starts on Another Uncharted Trip: Marriage

San Antonio, Tex., July 17.—(AP)—On the first anniversary of his famous "Wrong Way" flight to Ireland, Douglas Corrigan today took his childhood sweetheart, pretty Miss Elizabeth Marvin, as his bride. The First Baptist church, scene of the ceremony, was thronged. Following a reception at the home of the bride's parents, the newlyweds planned to leave on an aerial honeymoon. Their destination was not announced.

Merry Fahrney Sues Her 4th Husband for Divorce

New York, July 17.—[Special.]—Merry Fahrney, Chicago patent medicine heiress, started divorce proceedings today against her fourth husband, Count Oleg Cassini, to whom she was married ten months ago at Elkton, Md. Merry's first marriage was to Hugh Parker Pickering of Chicago in 1931. Frank Sands Van Elszrer, Baron Arturo Berlingieri, and Cassini followed in order as husbands 2, 3, and 4.

Major General, 11 Other Japanese Die in Plane Fall

TOKIO, July 17.—(AP)—Domei [Japanese] news agency dispatches from Hankow today reported Maj. Gen. Asaichi Toji and eleven other Japanese were killed when a naval plane made a forced landing near Hwangmei, Hupeh province.

Women Picket a Dump; City Trucks Halted

The wrath of northwest side householders and property owners resounded yesterday in the vicinity of a city dump at Narragansett and Grand avenues. Fifty women and children, with a scattering of male escorts, picketed the dump all morning in the rain.

They were tired, they said, of the noxious odors, smoke, and vermin coming from the refuse pit, an abandoned clay hole. And they were out to stop the city trucks from dumping there. They had their lunches, and some of them continued the siege until nightfall.

Truck Drivers Defied.

A few of the early morning trucks got by the picket lines, but before noon groups of women massed in front of the two entrances to the dump and defied the truck drivers to enter.

Chris W. Keane, a superintendent for the refuse division, tried to arrange a truce. He failed and sought the advice of Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works.

"We won't run over anybody," Hewitt ruled. "If they feel that way about it, take the refuse to other disposal places for the time being."

When this news got around the picket line dwindled rapidly.

Pit Serves Seven Wards.

The Narragansett refuse pit serves the 31st, 33d, 35th, 36th, 38th, 39th, and 41st wards. In accordance with a recent Circuit court injunction only paper trash averaging about 120 loads a day may be dumped there. Garbage from these wards has been taken either to Touhy and Central Park avenues, Niles Center; 31st street and Cicero avenue, Cicero, or to a loading platform at South Water street and the Illinois Central tracks.

The city yesterday began disposing of both refuse and garbage from the seven wards at the other dumps. But the added distance of travel, officials said, will slow up collections and boost the cost of operations.

Previously each truck and trailer has averaged about five loads a day. Now there will be time for only three or possibly four loads. This means that the time between collections for approximately 300,000 householders will be increased from about ten to fourteen days.

Dean Blames Hartnett for Injury Uproar

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Jerome [Dizzy] Dean, the $185,000 headline hunter, came home yesterday, slightly marred physically and greatly disturbed mentally.

The marring was a superficial cut on the left forearm. "I did it on a corner of a glass table top when reaching for a phone," repeated Diz. While irritated because his story wasn't generally accepted, the great man seemed to be enjoying the glare of the spotlight.

But while the great Diz, supported by his wife, Patricia, was insisting that his story was one hundred per cent correct, different versions were piling up. The rumors of what actually happened in his hotel room at New York around midnight Saturday finally drove Diz into protective hiding after he had been examined by Dr. John F. Davis, Cubs' physician.

Just a "Cat Scratch," He Says.

"Why all the rumpus about a cut?" boomed Dean, waving his left arm to show that the wound wasn't anything more than a cat scratch, as he termed it.

Then Mr. Dean intimated rather clearly that there wouldn't have been any mystery angle to his latest episode if he hadn't been sneaked out of New York under orders from Gabby Hartnett, the Cub manager.

Dean claimed he told his manager that the baseball writers traveling with the club should be told about the incident before his departure; not after, but that Hartnett refused to follow the suggestion.

So it is possible that Hartnett's summary chasing of the $185,000 pitcher may have been more because of a desire to discipline the big fellow for supposed training violations than to get him back home quickly for medical attention.

Hartnett Irked by Speech?

Manager Hartnett, while silent at all times about whatever Dean says or doesn't do as a pitcher, is said to have been in high dudgeon since the $185,000 cripple declared at a recent chamber of commerce luncheon here that "the Cubs ain't going to win if only two-thirds of them are really tryin'."

The manager is reported to have taken the view that the utterance was a slur on his ability to carry out the happy family idea. Some of the players, who might have suspected Dean had them included in the group of shovel leaners, also were a bit miffed.

Dean, of course, denied the story as printed. He assured club officials as well as his mates that he wasn't talking about the Cubs in particular—that he was merely pointing out that no team can win unless its members bear down. But it is possible that Hartnett may have felt the Dean utterance had hurt the morale and that he used the Saturday night happening as an excuse to dissociate the great man from his mates who lately have been doing some lofty tumbling in their pennant pursuit.

Deny Story of Spat.

Among the rumors that arose in New York after the Deans had headed for Chicago was that there had been a little domestic squall; that the Missus had pitched a lamp at Diz, who at midnight thought it would be nice to go out and meet some of his friends. Diz laughed about this one and Patricia termed it silly.

"Sure there was some yelling," said Diz. "I was yelling because my arm

SEYMOUR WEISS, 4 OTHER PARTY BIGWIGS NAMED

Charge $75,000 Split Among Them.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New Orleans, La., July 17.—Seymour Weiss, one of the "Big Three" who took over the old Huey P. Long machine after the death of the Kingfish, was indicted with four others today by a federal grand jury. They are charged with using the mails in a $75,000 fraud in connection with the sale of the old Bienville hotel to Louisiana State university three years ago.

Seymour Weiss.

Weiss is president of the Roosevelt hotel, largest in the deep south, and is president of the dock board. He has been regarded as one of the powers behind the throne in the administration of Richard W. Leche, who last month resigned as governor.

Indicted Men Listed.

Those indicted with Weiss are:

MONTE HART, head of the Hart Enterprise Electric company and a partner in Caldwell Bros. & Hart, contractors for many state projects.

LOUIS C. LESAGE, assistant to the president of the Standard Oil Company of Louisiana.

DR. JAMES MONROE SMITH, former president of Louisiana State university, now in the parish jail at Baton Rouge and already under 24 indictments ranging from forgery to embezzlement.

J. EMORY ADAMS, nephew of Dr. Smith's wife, also indicted by the Baton Rouge parish [county] grand jury on charges of aiding Dr. Smith in his flight from Louisiana after his resignation as president of the university.

The charges carry a maximum penalty of 5 years in prison and a fine of $1,000. Weiss and the others, except Smith, were arrested and released on $10,000 bond each.

The five are charged with selling to the state university for $75,000 the equipment of the Bienville hotel which already had been bought and paid for by the university. All the furnishings, it is charged, were included in the $575,000 purchase of the hotel by the university. The indictment charges that after this sale the defendants made a resale to the university of the furnishings it already owned.

Checks Sent Through Mail.

The action of a local bank, acting as an agent, in mailing the checks involved in the hotel transaction brought today's charge of using the post office in a "scheme to defraud."

The indictment asserts that Weiss and Hart, as officers of the Lee Circle Hotel company, owners of the Bienville hotel, negotiated about Sept. 20, 1936, for sale of the hotel to the university. It was to become part of the medical center, to be used as a nurses' home.

On Sept. 28, 1936, the indictment says, the university board authorized purchase of the hotel for the price fixed and the $575,000 was paid.

While these negotiations were going on, it is charged, Hart and Adams negotiated with Dr. Smith for payment of $75,000 by the university to the National Equipment Company, Inc., of which Hart was principal stockholder, "on the false and fraudulent pretext that this equipment company would deliver fixtures to the Bienville hotel."

Dr. Smith Blamed for Check.

The indictment says Dr. Smith, then university president, approved an invoice for $75,000 and caused a university check to be made out to the National Equipment company for $75,000.

The indictment said Hart received the full $75,000 and that he subsequently paid over or caused to be paid over $14,000 to Smith, $11,000 to Adams, $16,500 to Weiss, $8,500 to Lesage, and kept $19,066.91 for himself.

The indictment was returned a day after the arrival of O. John Rogge, assistant United States attorney general in charge of the criminal division. Tonight it was reported Attorney General Frank Murphy is on route here with J. Edgar Hoover, federal bureau of investigation chief, to take charge of the prosecution.

Quiz Former Governor.

Baton Rouge, La., July 17.—(AP)—Smiling, but still crippled by the arthritis he said forced him to resign the governorship, Richard W. Leche testified half an hour today before the parish [county] grand jury investigating Louisiana State university affairs.

The jury called Leche for questioning about financial irregularities discovered at the school after the resignation and flight of the former president, Dr. James Monroe Smith.

Three of the highest state officers, all friends of the late Huey P. Long, with whom they rose to importance in Louisiana, were summoned by the jury. The three—Associate Justice John B. Fournet of the Supreme court, Supervisor of Public Funds Frank Shattuck, and Collector of Revenue W. A. Cooper—were in the governor's mansion June 25 when Dr. Smith admitted huge losses in market speculations, resigned the post he had held nine years, and disappeared.

MACHINE GUN IN CAR, MR. ENRIGHT EXPLAINS IT ALL

An observant gasoline station attendant near Gary, Ind., noticed a machine gun on an automobile seat beside a customer late last night. He notified the Gary police, who requested the Illinois state police to halt the car.

"Arrest the driver of a sedan automobile with Illinois license 932,524," the Illinois police radio broadcast. "He is a tall, slender, dark haired man, with a machine gun on the seat beside him."

Shortly afterward the state police traced the license number to Robert Enright, 848 Wentworth avenue, Calumet City. They telephoned the Enright home, and Enright himself answered.

"Yes, what you say is true," Enright answered after a policeman had told him of the report from Gary. "But the machine gun is a dummy. I am a chemist employed in Whiting, Ind., and am director of the Hammond, Ind., Community theater. We used the dummy machine gun in a play some time ago, and I lent it to the Theater of the Dunes for a play called 'The Petrified Forest,' which was presented in the Dunes State park. I was just bringing it home. The park director can tell you all about it."

The police radio alarm was cancelled.

WISCONSIN VISIT NONPOLITICAL, M'NUTT ASSERTS

Milwaukee, Wis., July 17.—[Special]—Paul V. McNutt, who was appointed head of the Federal Security administration after he quit as high commissioner of the Philippines, spent this afternoon here in conference with Democratic politicians.

Although he told reporters his visit was nonpolitical, his conferences generally were considered to be the first open effort to corral Wisconsin's twenty-four votes in the Democratic national convention next year. Wisconsin is the first state to choose its slate.

Among those with whom McNutt conferred were three anti-New Deal Democrats. They are Charles Mullens of Milwaukee, James E. Finnegan, Democrtic nominee for attorney general in last year's election, and William Callahan, nominee for secretary of state in that election.

St. Nicholas, Historic Hotel in Springfield, to Be Razed

Springfield, Ill., July 17.—(AP)—The 80-year-old St. Nicholas hotel, Democratic headquarters in the capital for many years, is going to be torn down, Herbert B. Bartholf, president of the hotel, said tonight. A two story modern structure will be erected on the site of the original four-story building, built in 1859. The new building will include a lobby, lounge room, and mezzanine floor.

N. Y. TRUCK UNION RACKET ENDED BY CONSENT DECREE

New York, July 17.—[Special.]—The $1,000,000 a year New York trucking racket was wiped out by judicial decree today when two union delegates pleaded guilty to conspiracy to violate the federal anti-trust laws.

Their pleas were followed by signing of a consent decree submitted to Federal Judge John C. Knox under which the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers agreed to stop levying extra union fees on truck shipments into New York City.

William Campbell and Austin Furey, union delegates and organizers of the system under which truckers were forced to spend more than $1,000,000 yearly to bring vehicles into this city, admitted their guilt. They are subject to imprisonment of one year and fines of $5,000. Sentence will be imposed Oct. 2. More than seventy members of local 807 of the union were indicted in the investigation.

BRITAIN DRAFTS LAW TO CRUSH IRISH BOMBERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 17.—The British cabinet today approved drastic action to smash the campaign of bomb terrorism attributed to the Irish Republican army. The bombings have kept police and the public of Great Britain on tenterhooks since January.

Sir Samuel Hoare, secretary for home affairs, will submit to parliament on Wednesday an emergency bill outlawing the I. R. A. from England and making membership in the organization a criminal offense. The measure will give the home secretary authority to confiscate funds, materials, enable police to search premises without warrants and to detain suspects.

'Message to Garcia' Hero Is Honored in His Old Age

Washington, D. C., July 17.—(AP)—New honors came at a time of old age and illness today to Maj. Andrew S. Rowan, the hero of Elbert Hubbard's famous story, "A Message to Garcia." President Roosevelt signed legislation permitting the retired army officer to accept the order Carlos Manuel de Cespedes, tendered him by the government of Cuba in appreciation of his historic exploit. Maj. Rowan, now 82 years old and a resident of San Francisco, was a first lieutenant at the time of the war with Spain.

DEMANDS DEATH OF 3 FOR SEIZING WOMAN IN PRISON

Claim Holding of Hostage Was Kidnaping.

Indiana state authorities yesterday were preparing to seek the indictment of three convicts in the Michigan City prison on charges of kidnaping. If indicted they may face the death penalty. The three convicts seized a woman visitor in the prison on June 27 and held her as hostage in an escape plot until all were shot down.

Under an Indiana law, amended in 1935, kidnaping is punishable either by life imprisonment or death when carried out for ransom purposes. Ransom, the statute says, is "anything of value." The state will contend, it was reported, that the convicts' demand for freedom constituted a ransom demand.

Goes Before Jury Today.

Prosecutor Mark Storen of Laporte county said he will go before a Superior court grand jury in Michigan City today and demand the indictment of the trio.

The three convicts, Richard Sweet, a kidnaper, and Alphonse Skusewich, a murderer, serving life terms, and Earl Niverson, under a long term robbery sentence, demanded guns, an automobile and their freedom as the price for releasing their hostage, Mrs. Ruth Joiner of Crawfordsville.

Woman Still in Hospital.

The convicts seized Mrs. Joiner, a welfare worker, and barricaded themselves in the office of the prison physician. They were captured two hours later when their impromptu fort was rushed by state police. Mrs. Joiner and all three convicts were wounded.

Mrs. Joiner is expected to leave the hospital soon and may testify before the grand jury.

The three convicts, who received minor wounds, are still in solitary confinement. A guard, the warden's secretary and a fourth convict, injured in an attempt to rescue Mrs. Joiner, also were wounded slightly.

The grand jury probably will call Warden Alfred E. Dowd, various other prison officials and members of the party which was touring the prison with Mrs. Joiner.

HORACE L. BRAND ASKS DIVORCE ON CRUELTY GROUND

Horace L. Brand, 65 years old, editor in world war days of the now defunct Staats Zeitung, Chicago German language newspaper, filed suit in Superior court yesterday for divorce from Mrs. Erna M. Brand, 45, of 37 Cedar street.

Brand's bill was filed by Attorney William B. Gemmill. It charged nine acts of cruelty, beginning in 1926, two years after their marriage in New Orleans, La. They separated July 7, 1932.

Brand is now a real estate dealer at 25 West Illinois street. In 1937 a division of property ended a ten year court battle between Brand and his brother, Armin, over the estate of a third brother, Virgil, millionaire brewer, who left a coin collection valued at $3,000,000.

FINES REFUNDED BY SHANTY TOWN SPEED TRAPPERS

Stone Park's speed trap at North avenue and Mannheim road, in which 43 unsuspecting motorists were arrested illegally in a two week period, was formally obliterated yesterday at a conference in the state's attorney's office.

Byron Tuttle, special policeman, who made the arrests, and Oscar Morissett, police magistrate, who fined the motorists, met with Assistant State's Attorney Irwin B. Clorfene. The prosecutor told them they had no lawful right to make arrests or impose fines. The two men thereupon refunded $174 in fines collected from the motorists arrested. The money is to be returned to the drivers with the aid of the Chicago Motor club which helped expose the speed trap.

Tuttle and Morissett said they were sorry for their actions. The trap was established, it was said, to raise funds to pay for street improvements in Stone Park. Stone Park, originally a village of trailer homes and shanties, was incorporated as a village two months ago. It had never passed any ordinances calling for the election of a magistrate or providing for a special policeman.

$4,278,071 VOTED TO SUPPLEMENT PARKS BUDGET

The park board yesterday voted a $4,278,071 supplemental budget for the remainder of the year. At the beginning of the year the board appropriated $8,036,500 for 1939 expenditures. The total is now $12,314,571. The original appropriation, according to Robert J. Dunham, president, contemplated a reduction in the park staff in September. The recent park district pegged levy of $10,500,000 passed by the legislature, provided funds for the increase, Dunham said. The difference between the pegged levy and the total appropriation is to be met by miscellaneous revenue and surplus funds from last year.

Tire Blowout Blamed for Crash in Hinsdale.

The body of Mrs. Mildred C. Elwell, 46 years old, 3920 Spring road, Hinsdale, was found yesterday morning in her wrecked automobile, 100 feet off Madison street in a woods in Hinsdale. Mrs. Elwell apparently had lost control of her car when a tire blew out. It plunged over a ditch and into the woods. She was the wife of Russell T. Elwell, president of French Fashions, Inc., and the mother of two children.

Alphonse Timm, 40, traveling auditor for the Chicago, South Shore and South Bend railroad, was killed yesterday in an automobile collision in U. S. route 12 near Michigan City.

Two Cars Collide Head On.

Timm's automobile collided head on with a car driven by John Wawruk of 1122 Huron street, Chicago. Wawruk and his daughter, Delphine, 14, were injured critically. Irene Pajak, 15, of 2322 Laramie street, also in the Wawruk car, was less seriously hurt. Timm lived at 308 West 11th street in Michigan City.

An inquest into the death of Mrs. Sarah Collier, 78, of Farmer City, De Witt county, was continued indefinitly yesterday pending recovery of twenty-one persons. They were injured and Mrs. Collier was killed Sunday night in two related accidents at Mannheim road and 87th street in Palos township. The mishaps involved three automobiles and a truck carrying thirty picnickers.

Robert Kirkpatrick, 66, of 5720 South Paulina street, was killed when his car was struck by a South Shore interurban railroad train at Hudson Lake, near Laporte, Ind. Mr. Kirkpatrick retired recently after forty years as an engineer with Armour & Co.

Pedestrian Hit by Car Dies.

Joseph Jankowski, 61, of 1546 West 50th street, a WPA employé, died in County hospital of injuries received July 10 when he was struck by an automobile at Ashland avenue and 50th street. The driver was Walter Mazur, of 4840 South Racine avenue.

Lewis Near, 46, of 2772 East 75th street, died in Hines hospital of injuries suffered July 5 in an automobile collision at 79th street and Ashland avenue.

Mrs. John E. Nelson, 57, of 3226 Maple avenue, Berwyn, died at Baraboo, Wis., of injuries received in an automobile accident near the Wisconsin Dells on Friday.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 438 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 340 were killed in Chicago, where 11,310 were injured in the same period.

WIFE HITS POLICE CAR IN DRIVING LESSON AND HUSBAND SQUARES HER

Ernest Knapp, 2017 Lawrence avenue, a bricklayer, started out Sunday morning to teach his wife, Anita, 31, to drive the family automobile.

All went well until Mrs. Knapp started to turn from Foster avenue into Lincoln avenue and struck a police squad car which had stopped for a trafic signal. The policemen charged Mrs. Knapp with reckless driving and driving without an operator's license, and charged her husband with disorderly conduct.

Judge Francis Borrelli in Safety court decided yesterday that Knapp should be commended for trying to teach his wife to drive. The charges were dismissed when Knapp agreed to pay for the damage to the squad car.

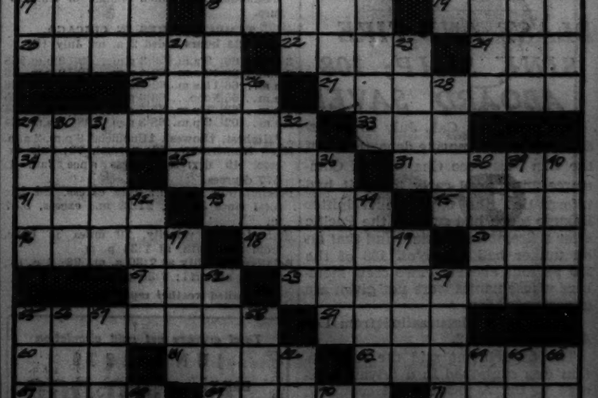
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



ARMOUR CHIEFS TO MEET COUNCIL GROUP ON C. I. O.

Parley on Threat of Strike Planned Thursday.

Representatives of Armour & Co. will meet Thursday with the city council subcommittee on labor to discuss a dispute with the Packinghouse Workers' organizing committee, an affiliate of the Congress of Industrial Organizations. The company's decision to attend the meeting was announced in a telegram accepting an invitation by Ald. W. A. Rowan [10th], committee chairman.

George A. Eastwood.

The conference will take up a strike threat made by the P. W. O. C. Sunday, when 856 delegates, representing 78,000 workers, authorized their officials to call a strike against seventeen of the twenty-nine Armour national plants unless the company agreed to enter into negotiations on the question of collective bargaining.

Big Four Threatened.

P. W. O. C. officials also were authorized to call strikes against the Swift, Wilson, and Cudahy companies on similar grounds. These, with Armour, constitute the "big four" of the packing industry. At present, however, Armour is the only company immediately affected.

The Armour representatives at the Thursday parley, as appointed by George A. Eastwood, executive vice president, will be H. S. Eldred, vice president in charge of plant operations; Harvey G. Ellerd, personnel director, and William C. Kirk, attorney.

Van A. Bittner, P. W. O. C. chairman, will head the union representatives at the conference. Joseph Keenan, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, also will attend. Keenan said yesterday that A. F. of L. members outnumber P. W. O. C. members in Armour plants. This was disputed by Bittner. Another conferee may be P. W. Campbell of the federal conciliation service of the department of labor. Thus far his rôle is that of observer.

Bargaining Main Issue.

One phase of the conference may be wage scales, which are the basis of the present controversy. The broader question, however, is that of collective bargaining.

Packing house men employés are paid from 62½ cents to $1.17½ an hour. Women employés are paid slightly less. The average pay is 67 cents an hour. A spokesman for the P. W. O. C. said the packing house pay scale is thirteenth from the top among fifteen major American industries.

A packing industry spokesman agreed that the pay scale is lower than in some other industries, but said that in annual earnings packing house workers stand close to the top of the fifteen industries. He said the packing houses work fifty-two weeks a year and that the employés therefore earn more than employés in industries which have layoff periods.

Packers' Condition Normal.

Informal surveys last night indicated that the "big four" packers were in normally sound financial condition, with prospects of earning profits this year instead of incurring losses, as they did last year. Armour & Co. reported a loss of $1,505,089 at the end of the last fiscal year, Oct. 29, 1938. Sales had declined 8¼ per cent from the previous year. Armour's total assets are listed at $307,009,508.

Packinghouse authorities said last night that meat supplies would not be endangered by a strike unless every packing house in the country were tied up. In such event, they said, there would be enough reserve to last for two weeks at the normal rate of consumption.

It was said that packers generally are three to ten days ahead in packing production and this, with cold storage reserves, would assure meat supplies for the nation for approximately two weeks.

800 Million Pound Reserve.

The reserve on hand for a two week period normally would amount to approximately 800 million pounds, it was estimated last night. This estimate was based on the recent average monthly production of 1 billion 600 million pounds.

In the event of a strike, it was said, farmers would be in a fortunate position, since there is an ample supply of feed for the live stock which they could not send to market. Further feed supplies would be available to farmers in the coming harvest.

SAN REMO, Italy, July 17—Miriam Verne, Pittsburgh, Pa., dancer, explained today that a prior contract for a four day appearance at the municipal casino here forced her to pass up Adolf Hitler's invitation to appear at Munich last night in the light opera, "Merry Widow."

The explanation was given upon the arrival here of the blue eyed dancer, whose performances in Germany have been attended several times by the Fuehrer. Miss Verne planned to go from here to Belgium and said she hoped later to return to Germany.

260 ARRAIGNED UNDER MUZZLES OF GUARD GUNS

Harlan, Ky., July 17.—[Special.]—Under the muzzles of National Guard machine guns, 260 men and women were arraigned in court today on charges resulting from a battle between state troops and C. I. O. coal mine union pickets. By agreement of attorneys all cases were passed on to the grand jury.

Guardsmen mounted machine guns outside the court house and searched all who entered for firearms.

All except one of the defendants were held under the all inclusive charge of banding and confederating. Bonds of $500 each were fixed for 225, but they were not required to post surety. The bonds of 34 were raised from $1,000 to $2,000 each.

HOTEL BANDITS WISH FOR CARD: DO NOT DISTURB

Two gunmen who worked deliberately despite several interruptions got $196 last night in a holdup of the 7000 South Shore Drive hotel. They fled on foot after firing one shot into the lobby from a pistol equipped with a silencer. No one was wounded.

The clerk, Fred Zierke, and the elevator operator, George Dennewitz, were at the desk when the bandits entered. They forced Zierke to open a small safe and hand over the money. Just then Julian Murphy, the hotel engineer, came in. One gunmen herded Zierke and Murphy into an anteroom. Miss Edith Dutt, the switchboard operator, appeared and was covered by the second bandit, who was watching Dennewitz. Dr. Hazel Griffith the next arrival, was treated the same way.

ACT FOR PEACE IN WPA STRIKE AT MINNEAPOLIS

Building Union Agrees to Governor's Proposal.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., July 17.—Representatives of union building trades workers engaged in the WPA strike here agreed in effect tonight to the peace proposal submitted by Gov. Harold E. Stassen.

Gov. Stassen made his proposal at a conference in his office earlier in the day in an effort to rescind the dismissal of thousands of Minneapolis WPA workers and to reopen WPA projects in the city. The strikers were taken from active WPA rolls and placed at the botton of the WPA waiting list because they failed to appear for work for five consecutive days, in accordance with a Washington ruling. The WPA projects were closed because of the violence in the strike, which resulted in two deaths last week.

Strike Against Work Hours.

The strike here and in other parts of the country is against the new WPA regulation which requires all skilled workers, as well as common laborers, to put in 130 hours a month on WPA projects. In some instances the provision doubles WPA hours for skilled workers for the same wage prevailing prior to July 1.

Gov. Stassen proposed to the strike committee at today's conference that all skilled workers in the building trades either return to work under protest or remain away, at the same time permitting other WPA employés to work without molestation. The latter suggestion met with virtual agreement when the building trades representatives considered it following the governor's meeting.

Plans Appeal to Capital.

Informed of their attitude, Stassen said tonight that if the same answer is given by all other unions supporting the strike, as well as the Workers' alliance, he will appeal to Washington officials for reinstatement of the strikers without discrimination.

The governor also revealed tonight that he had received from Linus Glotzbach, state WPA administrator, consent to urge Washington officials to modify the order under which the workers were discharged for staying off the project for five days. Earlier in the day Glotzbach had declared he would stand pat on his intention to enforce the five day rule.

WIFE BACKS MATE IN SAYING BRIDGES IS A COMMUNIST

San Francisco, Cal., July 17.—(AP)—The cries of a baby girl, as her mother testified she wanted none of her seven children brought up "under a communist régime," interrupted the Harry Bridges' deportation hearing today.

Dean James M. Landis of the Harvard university law school, the trial examiner, halted the hearing to suggest the 4 month old baby be removed before the mother, Mrs. Mary Leech, continued her testimony.

Mrs. Leech followed her husband, John L. Leech, to the stand to support his testimony that Bridges, west coast maritime leader, was a high ranking member of the communist party.

Mrs. Leech and her husband, both former party members, identified Bridges as a communist in statements given to immigration authorities in Portland, Ore., Aug. 30, 1937. A month earlier Leech signed an affidavit [offered in evidence by the defense] denying knowledge that the west coast C. I. O. leader was a communist. Leech said he signed this affidavit because he feared communist party discipline. Leech previously testified he moved from Los Angeles to Portland to obtain police protection for himself and family.

Slays Father

Alta Heath, 16, of Danville, Ill., who confessed slaying her father.

Danville, Ill., July 17.—[Special.]—A murder warant was filed today against Alta Heath, 16 years old, who Saturday night shot and killed her father, Andrew, 39 years old.

Fifteen women, neighbors of the girl, corroborated her story of brutal treatment at the hands of her father, as did her stepmother, Mrs. Mildred Heath.

The neighbors recalled that the girl had left school four years ago, when her mother died, to keep house for her father and care for her four brothers. Heath married his second wife two years ago.

Heath was drunk when he arrived home from work Saturday evening. When he started to beat and abuse his daughter, she seized a shotgun for protection, she told police. Heath walked into the yard. A few minutes later the girl shot her father. He died six hours later.

45 IN NIGHT GARB FLEE FLAMES IN LA GRANGE HOTEL

Forty-five guests attired in night clothes were driven out of the La Grange hotel, 8 West Burlington road, in La Grange, by fire early today. Nobody was injured.

The fire started at the rear of the second floor, presumably from crossed wires or a cigaret, according to Fire Chief William Hofman. Smoke soon poured through the second, third, and fourth floors, arousing guests.

They fled hastily, but without panic. Many took small personal possessions. They were given shelter by residents in the neighborhood. The fire was confined to its source, but smoke and water damage was general in the hotel. The damage was estimated at $10,000.

The hotel has been in La Grange for many years. Its chief fame in recent years was achieved through John Barrymore, the actor. He stopped there briefly in September, 1935, in his cross country flight from Elaine Barrie, his protégée whom he later married.

RAIN HOLDS UP START OF NEW RELIEF PROJECT

The rain yesterday delayed the start of the new work program for Chicago's able bodied reliefers. Only 940 of the 1,626 persons who received the first assignments reported for work. Most of them were sent home because of the weather.

Leo M. Lyons, Chicago relief administrator, said the men will get a chance to make up the time lost. Relief clients classed as employable are to work five days a month, six hours a day. They will be credited with earning 50 cents an hour.

Reliefers scheduled to go to work yesterday have been assigned to do general maintenance work for the city bureau of parks and recreation. Projects for most of the other employables are being drafted by Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works.

WOMAN, 70, DIES OF FALL.

Mrs. Julia Dennie, 70 years old, a widow, died in County hospital yesterday of complications following a fall in which she was injured on April 10 in her home at 9223 Fullerton parkway.

WALKOUT ON WPA NEARS COLLAPSE ALL OVER NATION

Illinois Strikers Join Back to Work Movement.

The WPA strike, in Illinois as well as most of the other WPA strikes in the nation, last night were reported to be on the wane. Rain throughout Illinois, however, stopped work on nearly all construction projects and made it impossible to judge the full extent of the strike in the state.

Seventeen hundred WPA and other workers returned to their jobs at Scott field, the new army air base near East St. Louis, under police protection. Nearby Madison county was reported to be the hotbed of the strike in this state. But in Bloomington WPA relief workers went about their jobs for the first time in two weeks without hindrance from strikers.

Legislative Action Unlikely.

Reports from Washington indicated the virtual abandonment of attempts to change the major item in the WPA law to which the strikers object—the provision that all WPA relief workers must work 130 hours a month. Prior to July 1 they worked from 48 to 120 hours a month.

Among the reports given to the Associated Press by WPA officials in Washington were these:

MICHIGAN—All workers back on the job.

INDIANA—Strike practically over, with only a few workers still out.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—Workers back on the job. The local Workers' alliance [organization of WPA workers and reliefers] said it would not join in the national stop-work holiday proposed for Thursday.

Vote to Return to Work.

MONTANA—In Great Falls 235 workers voted to return to work under protest, sixty to return unconditionally, and fifty-one not to return.

WASHINGTON—All workers back on the job.

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA — Most back at work.

OREGON—The WPA "action committee" approved participation in protest demonstrations Thursday, but said the action is not part of the strike.

VERMONT, NEW HAMPSHIRE, MAINE, and RHODE ISLAND—No strikers.

MASSACHUSETTS — All strikers back at work except a few who got private employment and thirty-eight hoisting engineers in Boston who were dropped.

An American Federation of Labor strike in Pennsylvania was declared by WPA officials to be ineffectual.

HOLD INDIAN IN WIFE'S DEATH.

John Blackhawk, 45 years old, part Sioux Indian, was ordered held to the grand jury on a charge of murder yesterday by a coroner's jury investigating the death of Blackhawk's wife, Madge, 42, colored. Mrs. Blackhawk fell to her death Sunday from the window of their fourth floor flat at 848 North Wells street.

Garbage Barred

The shaded area marks those wards served by trucks which were prevented by pickets from dumping garbage at Narragansett and Grand avenues yesterday. As a result garbage from these wards will have to be dumped at less accessible spots and collection will be slowed accordingly.

DAIRY CONCERNS MAP PROTEST ON MILK PRICE RISE

Representatives of Chicago dairy companies met yesterday to consider action to be taken as a result of the increase in wholesale milk prices forced upon the companies Sunday by the Pure Milk association, which represents 10,000 farmers in this area. Company attorneys were instructed to ascertain whether the P. M. A. had acted legally in raising prices two-thirds of a cent a quart, or 30 cents a 100 pounds, on grade A milk without first negotiating with the companies.

The higher prices inevitably will result in increased prices to consumers, company spokesmen said. A raise to the former retail levels of 12 cents a quart for delivered milk and 10 cents at the stores may become necessary, it was said. Present rates are 11 cents delivered and 9 cents in stores. At present the companies are paying the new price of $1.72 a 100 pounds under protest.

HEAD OF POLICE IN PHILADELPHIA FIRED BY MAYOR

Philadelphia, Pa., July 17.—[Special.]—Andrew J. Emanuel, 70 years old, director of public safety, who a few months ago shared with Mayor S. Davis Wilson denunciation from the bench for vice and gambling conditions in the city, was summarily fired today by the mayor.

An hour and a half later Mayor Wilson, who has been kept at home by illness since January, summoned James H. [Shooey] Malone, veteran detective, and swore him in to replace the ousted director. The swift action came after Director Emanuel, known as a docile subordinate, had defied the mayor in making a minor police appointment.

The new director, 53, was ousted last week by Gov. Arthur H. James from the Philadelphia registration commission, with three of his fellow commissioners.

26 TON DYNAMITE BLAST KILLS ONE; 18 ARE INJURED

Harlem, Mont., July 17.—(AP)—A 26-ton charge of dynamite, set off today in a rock wall, killed a boy, injured 18 persons, destroyed 14 railroad flat cars, twisted steel rails and made kindling of two camp buildings. The boy, Wade K. Confer, 14 was hit by flying rock while standing with his father to make pictures of the explosion. The father, O. M. Confer, superintendent of the Snake Butte quarry, 14 miles south of Harlem, was one of the injured.

The massive charge was set off to remove a rock wall. Quarry employés said the force of the blast, instead of loosening and driving the rock upward, apparently escaped horizontally through a fissure. The quarry supplies rock for the Fort Peck dam, now under construction.

GOVERNOR MAY SEEK DRY LAW FOR MICHIGAN

Lansing, Mich., July 17.—(AP)—Gov. Luren D. Dickinson, who recently deplored drinking and "high life" he said he had observed at the national conference of governors, today discussed the possibility of restoring prohibition in Michigan.

The 80 year old executive, who is the retiring president of the Anti-Saloon league of Michigan, said he was "inclined to believe there is sentiment for prohibition, but these people don't realize what they have to bump up against."

He said he might invite churches of Michigan to join him in a campaign to outlaw liquor by constitutional referendum, the exercise of local option, or otherwise, but added that "it isn't for me to bump my head against a wall."

BRITAIN INSISTS FAR EAST POLICY WON'T BE ALTERED

Sends New Instructions to Envoy in Tokio.

BULLETIN.

TOKIO, July 18 (Tuesday).—(AP)—A Domei, Japanese news agency, dispatch from Tsinan, North China, said Chinese mobs broke into offices of Jardine Matheson, British shippers, today destroying the furniture and wrecking the interior. The mob attempted a similar attack upon other British houses, but was prevented by Japanese gendarmes.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 17.—Fresh instructions were sent tonight to the British ambassador in Tokio, Sir Robert Leslie Craigie, who is discussing with the Japanese foreign minister, Hachiro Arita, a basis for negotiations to settle the Japanese blockade of the British and French concessions in Tientsin.

Earlier, in the house of commons, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain declared that Great Britain would not and could not reverse its foreign policy in the far east at the demand of another power.

This was in answer to a question whether Japan had made such a demand as a condition to opening negotiations for a Tientsin settlement Chamberlain said Britain had not received such a demand from Japan.

Stay on Preliminary Basis.

Craigie and Arita held a three hour conference in Tokio on Saturday. The conversations are expected to be resumed on Wednesday.

Diplomatic circles here believed today's developments meant that the British were prepared to keep the talks on a so-called preliminary basis until the course of events in Europe is more clearly perceived. There were also indications that the British were trying to get the Japanese to scale down their conditions in order to make a formal conference possible.

Questioning from the opposition in the house of commons indicated suspicions that a deal of some kind might be clinched before the talks on the Tientsin situation reached the formal stage.

Cover Broad Issues.

Chamberlain said that Craigie and Arita had gone over broad issues in their talk Saturday, but that Japan had not "suggested that discussion or settlement of the general question [of Britain's far east policy] should be a condition of negotiations."

Chamberlain said Japan did want Britain to "regard Chinese-Japanese hostilities with more understanding of Japan's difficulties and the Japanese side of the case."

Former Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden asked whether the Japanese had not asked for the Tokio conversations to be extended beyond the local Tientsin issue.

"I did not say quite that," Chamberlain replied, but he admitted the discussions between Cragie and Arita had covered a wide range.

Main Cause for Delay.

TOKIO, July 18 [Tuesday].—(AP)—A request that Britain recognize the necessity of the Japanese army's operations in China was advanced today as a major reason for the temporary postponement of Japanese-British talks here on the Tientsin dispute.

Some Tokio quarters expressed the opinion that British agreement on this point would be tantamount to recognizing belligerent rights for Japan.

Such an agreement, it was said, would permit the Japanese army to exercise much more stringent control not only over Britain's concessions but also her nationals and their privileges throughout China.

Rail Town Bombed

Map locates Halunarshan, railway center, which was raided by soviet bombers. Japanese threatened to retaliate by bombing the soviet air base at Blagoveshchensk.

SHANGHAI, July 17.—(AP)—Eight soviet Mongolian planes were reported to have bombed Halunarshan, Manchukuo, today within a few hours after the Japanese protested to the Outer Mongolian government against three previous aerial forays.

Domei, the Japanese news agency, reported four Manchukuans were wounded and three railway cars destroyed by soviet raiders in the third attack within a week on that important railhead, 125 miles from the Outer Mongolia border. Similar attacks were made last Monday and Thursday.

Soviet planes yesterday raided Fularki, a rail center 40 miles south of Tsitsihar on the government-owned Harbin-Hailar line. Seven persons were wounded and two buildings destroyed there.

[Dispatches from Hsinking, capital of Manchukuo, said the Japanese protested to Ulan Bator [Urga], Outer Mongolian capital, and to the soviet consul at Harbin, threatening to retaliate by attacking Blagoveshchensk, Russia's Siberian air base.]

JAPAN EXPRESSES REGRET FOR BOMB DANGER TO ENVOY

TOKIO, July 17.—(AP)—Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita expressed regrets to the counselor of the American embassy, Eugene H. Dooman, when Dooman called at the foreign office on July 8 to call attention to the fact that Japanese airmen had dropped bombs near the Chungking home of American Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson in a raid on the Chinese capital the day before, it was announced today.

Dooman also pointed out that bombs fell close to the American gunboat Tutuila, anchored in the Yangtze river at Chungking.

Dooman said he registered no protest but pointed out the danger to American interests of indiscriminate bombing. No apology was asked or given, but Arita promptly stated the bombing was accidental and expressed regrets. Arita said the airmen took every precaution to avoid American property.

FIRST TELEGRAM HELPS DONALD; 2D LOCKS HIM UP

Donald King, who also uses the name of Robert Towers, was locked up at the Grand Crossing station last night because of two telegrams.

King was registered at the Southgate hotel, 7120 Yates avenue, as Towers. Last Friday, as he now admits, he sent a telegram to himself. It said: "Have deposited money in Farmers' Savings bank at Keota, Ia." On the strength of this telegram King tendered a Keota check for his room rent. He got $6 change on a $10 check Sunday. Then Miss Florence Paige, manager of the hotel, sent the second telegram in the case—to the Keota bank. She was informed King, or Towers, had no account. She called police.

When Sergt. John McArdle appeared, King said before he was taken away: "I picked out Keota because I was there once. Nice town—up to now."

ADMITS ENGLAND 'ADVISES' PRESS WHAT TO PUBLISH

Chamberlain Bares News Censorship.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 17.—Prime Minister Chamberlain today disclosed in the house of commons that his new propaganda department frequently "advises" British newspapers on how they should handle news. The advice usually is taken, he added.

The prime minister's admission that the newly created foreign publicity department also is concerning itself with what appears in the British press came in answer to questions whether he had noticed "sensational and exaggerated newspaper posters and headlines."

Charge Posts Harm Relations.

Sir Percy Hurd and Sir Frank Sanderson, Conservatives, claimed in questions addressed to Chamberlain that the posters and headlines had a harmful effect on international relations.

The prime minister replied: "I am glad to take this opportunity of deprecating the display of posters which contain sensational exaggerations or misleading captions which are calculated to give rise to unnecessary anxiety at home and undesirable reactions abroad."

Chamberlain went on to explain how the foreign office news department, which is part of the foreign publicity department recently organized under Lord Perth to disseminate British propaganda abroad, frequently tells British editors the error of their ways.

Says Editors Follow Advice.

Referring to his statement regarding the posters, he said: "The same observations are not infrequently applicable to headlines in the press. The news department of the foreign office consistently draws the attention of representatives of the press to this danger and I am glad to say the proprietors and editors are aware of it and with some exceptions are following the advice offered."

Hurd followed his first question with a suggestion to Chamberlain that the press should "manage its own unruly members as do doctors, lawyers and members of other professions."

The prime minister replied: "I think the press will do that for the most part."

Sir William Davison, Conservative, gave an illustration of how far a certain section of Chamberlain's party is anxious to go in controling the British press.

Urges Parley with Publishers.

He suggested the prime minister "have a personal conference with newspaper proprietors with a view to elimination of these posters and also of a great deal which appears in the press which is not in the national interest."

Chamberlain made no reply.

The prime minister's statement that his propaganda department "advises" editors aroused speculation here as to whether the so-called shadow ministry of information is emerged from the shadows and is operating without waiting for a war to begin.

Chinese Blow Up Bridges to Stall Japanese Attack

FOOCHOW, China, July 17.—(AP)—Countering a Japanese announcement of a big scale invasion of Fukien province to start on Wednesday with operations against Hingwha, Chinese forces today were blowing up bridges on the Hinghwa-Foochow highway. It was believed the Japanese might strike out overland toward Foochow once Hinghwa, an important foreign missionary center seventy miles to the south, had been taken.

REDS REJECT JAP NOTE ON OIL CONCESSIONS; BRAND IT ULTIMATUM

MOSCOW, July 17.—(AP)—The soviet Russian official news agency Tass tonight declared a Japanese demand in ultimatum form regarding the rights of Japanese oil and coal concessions on Sakhalin Island had been rejected without consideration.

Arrow locates soviet territory where oil rights are disputed.

A communique by Tass said S. A. Lozovsky, vice commissar of foreign affairs, returned a note handed him on Sunday by the Japanese ambassador, Shigenori Togo, saying that "since the document contains threats and is in the nature of an ultimatum, the peoples' commissariat of foreign affairs deems it impossible to accept it and returns it without consideration."

The announcement said the Japanese note "raised questions connected with the unlawful activities of Japanese oil and coal concessions on Sakhalin Island, and also contested known decisions of soviet courts concerning unlawful actions of Japanese concession owners on Sakhalin Island. The Japanese ambassador demanded in this document in ultimatum form that an answer to the questions he raised be given not later than July 18."

SOVIET ACTRESS STABBED; THROAT CUT; EYES PUT OUT

MOSCOW, July 17.—(AP)—The brutal slaying of Zenaida Reich, actress wife of the Bolshevik stage producer, Vsevolod Meyerhold, shocked Moscow today. Found in her apartment with eleven knife wounds in her body, her eyes put out and her throat cut, she was rushed to a hospital but died four hours later. Burglars were suspected.

Her death continued a train of tragic coincidences. Her first husband, the poet Sergei Yessenin, hanged himself. His second wife, the American dancer Isadora Duncan, was strangled in a freak automobile accident at Nice, France, in 1927. Her long scarf became entangled in one of the wheels and pulled her out of the machine.

Zenaida Reich was reported taken in custody by Moscow secret police last Wednesday for unexplained reasons. Her arrest followed that of her internationally known husband who had stood high in bolshevist circles only a few years before but whose theater was closed in 1938 when the communist party organ, Pravda, denounced the anti-soviet tinge of some of his later theatrical productions.

TYROLESE RESIST EXPULSION FROM HOMES IN ITALY

Fascists Arrest Many to Smash Movement.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 17.—Italian restrictions on travel in Bolzano province in the Italian Tyrol are designed to prevent the outside world from gaining information as to the manner Fuehrer Hitler and Premier Mussolini are eliminating the German minority there, a dispatch from Bolzano said today.

The Italian government recently ordered all foreigners to leave Bolzano province. It said the action was for "political and military" reasons.

The dispatch from Bolzano disclosed that the Tyrolese are organizing resistance to their expulsion under the direction of village mayors and school teachers. Italian secret police, the dispatch said, have searched many homes and made many arrests, including 45 prominent Tyrolese, in an effort to suppress this movement.

17,000 Join Movement.

Particularly indignant are said to be those Tyrolese who, acting on German advice, resisted Italianization in the Upper Adige. These persons were placed on Fascism's black list. It is said these Tyrolese are behind the resistance movement, which is estimated to have attracted 17,000 persons.

It is reported that many peasants, who form four-fifths of the total population of the province, have decided to leave their homes only by fore.

The dispatch from Bolzano indicated that discontent is directed against both Mussolini and Hitler. The Tyrolese, it said, accuse Hitler of betraying the interests of the German minority in order to please the Italian government.

Travelers Report Killings.

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

ROME, July 17.—Feeling against Italy is running high in Bolzano province, said vacationists who arrived from South Tyrol today. In the last two months, these persons said, twenty-six Austrians and Italianized Austrians and four Black Shirt militiamen have been killed in shooting frays.

Anti-Italian feeling has increased because of the Italian government's decision to remove 200,000 former Austrians and Italianized Austrians who have refused to become good Italians, it was stated.

The travelers said that wherever they went they heard former Austrians and Italians of Austrian origin say they would rather be killed than give up the farms and homesteads in which they have lived for generations.

In anticipation of difficulties Black Shirt contingents have been sent into Bolzano province and other points near the German border to suppress any disorders.

Mrs. Daphne Field Kelley.

Mr. Kelley, son of the William V. Kelleys of Chicago and Lake Forest, confirmed his wife's plans for a divorce. He said the action would be uncontested and indicated that an out of court settlement had been arranged. The Kelleys were married Nov. 8, 1924, in a fashionable wedding at St. Chrysostom's church.

TURKS DEMAND ITALY GIVE BACK DODECANESE IS.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, July 17.—The newspaper Yeni Savah today asserted that now is the time for Italy to hand back the Dodecanese Islands to Greece and Turkey, their "rightful owners."

Arrow locates islands demanded from Italy.

The paper declares that Italy acquired the islands because of enmity between Greece and Turkey but now that these two countries are in the same "peace front" they cannot tolerate another country in a place of vital importance to their communications.

Ulus, official newspaper in Ankara, declares that the peace front powers must not remain on the defensive but make counterclaims against the totalitarian states. It adds that the Dodecanese claim should be one of the most prominent.

TOUR OF MEXICO SHOWS DIVERSITY OF ITS PRODUCTS

Lands Raise Sugar Cane, Corn, Cotton, Wheat.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORREON, Mexico [By Mail.]—Owing to the vastness of Mexico and its limited transportation facilities, considerable effort is necessary to get a view of Mexico's major producing regions—oil, sugar cane, cotton and wheat.

The oil fields are confined mainly to the east coast section, with the Tampico district being the most important. Here are located six large refineries of the fifteen scattered over the country. The wells radiate in all directions.

The refining plants are similar to ours, but are older and show signs of obsolescence. No improvements or repairs are noticed. Workmen's houses generally are small wooden shacks and not on a par with similar living quarters in America. The crude is piped to central storage plants and from there to refineries or to docks in the raw state.

Unwilling to Expand.

The few operating companies that were not expropriated are now skeleton communities with empty houses. Few signs of activity are apparent. When the oil seizures took place, on March 18, 1938 all expansion and development of fields ceased because the companies realized that their turn might come at any hour.

From Tampico the highway runs northwest for 450 miles to Monterrey. For the first 150 miles the going is rough—over gravel and broken pavement with frequent detours for bridge and road repairs. In one place it was necessary to cross a river on an old ferry boat powered by an endless pulley.

Along the road are large fields of sugar cane. Two crops a year are harvested. The country west of Tampico is fertile, but not nearly as level or expansive as the big corn plateau between Mexico City and Vera Cruz or the Laguna wheat and cotton country near Torreon. The plantations and sugar refining plants are small.

Strikes Broad Highway.

It is pleasant to strike the big Laredo-Mexico City highway 300 miles south of Monterrey. This turnpike is 20 feet wide of smooth asphalt with easy grades and curves. It is popular with American motor tourists. Its big detriment is the open range stock grazing. The country is full of cattle, goats, horses, and donkeys roaming at large.

The hills and dividing ranges furnish some pretty landscapes in the early summer. Many small towns, with comfortable hotels and eating places relieve the motorist of all hardships. English is widely spoken in this section of Mexico.

Monterrey, the metropolis of northern Mexico, with a population of nearly 160,000, in particular has an American atmosphere. The several, comfortable up to date hotels there are usually filled with American tourists. One of the unique sights to see in Monterrey is Military City, a sort of junior Mussolini forum that the presidential candidate, Gen. Andreu Almazan, built for himself. It is in reality a modernistic army post, situated in the northern part of the city.

West to Laguna Farms.

From Monterrey, another excellent asphalt highway runs west for 300 miles to Torreon, in the heart of the famed Laguna [lakes] farming country. With the exception of the small, enterprising city of Saltillo, 60 miles out, there is nothing to see for 150 miles. However, one can make time on the highway. There are many perfectly straight stretches each 8 to 12 miles long.

With the opening out of broad, flat fertile farm lands, the picture changes. There are wheat and cotton fields. It is a common sight to see from 15 to 25 single mule plows going into a cotton field. In the wheat fields, however, one observes that the government managed coöperative farmers cannot handle the harvesting machinery. Only three tractor drawn combines were observed in the overripe wheat fields. They were all standing idle at 10 a. m.

SENATE VOTES TO OUTLAW FILM BLOCK BOOKING

Washington, D. C., July 17.—(AP)—By a 46 to 28 vote that cut sharply across party lines the senate approved today legislation which would outlaw compulsory block booking and blind selling in the film industry. The bill goes to the house, which failed to act on a similar senate measure passed last year.

Thirty-three Democrats, nine Republicans, two Farmer-Laborites, one Independent, and one Progressive carried the measure. Nine Republicans and nineteen Democrats opposed it.

The bill would prohibit producers and distributors from requiring exhibitors to take all or none of a group of films. The practice of requiring exhibitors to contract for a group of films is known as "block booking."

The measure also would compel the furnishing of a complete synopsis of each picture. Sale of pictures without such a synopsis is called "blind selling."

Insists Atlanta Will See 'Gone with the Wind' First

Hollywood, Cal., July 17.—(AP)—The world premiere of Margaret Mitchell's "Gone with the Wind" will be held in Atlanta, setting for much of the story, Producer David O. Selznick said tonight. Selznick wired William B. Hartsfield of Atlanta that rumors to the contrary, involving transfer of the première to New York, were "without foundation." Date for the première is indefinite.

HONEYMOONERS, 60 AND 16, JUST LIVE ON TROUBLE

New York, July 17.—[Special.]—Carmelo Locapria, 60 years old, and his bride, Torsilla, a school girl of 16, had more trouble today following their exciting marriage last night when the gray haired bridegroom was threatened at the church by an angry crowd of neighbors who thought he was too old for Torsilla. Police who protected Locapria last night were called to the honeymoon flat today after screams were heard there.

Locapria said the trouble was caused when a brother of his first wife, who died a year ago, forced his way into the apartment and demanded that the Locaprias move out. He insisted, Locapria said, that the house had belonged to his dead sister.

To add to their troubles, some one threw a rock through a window of the newlyweds' apartment. Then the neighbors crowded the street in front of the place hooting and shouting insults. Finally a policeman was posted at the door.

COMB WIDE AREA IN WILL O' WISP HUNT FOR KILLER

Search for Outlaw Now Centers in Illinois.

Jack C. Russell, fleeing Oklahoma convict, was still a step ahead of the law last night in a man hunt that extended through the middle west.

The most extensive search was centered in Marion and Jefferson counties in southern Illinois. But Russell, already blamed for one murder and two kidnapings, was also sought in Chicago, where he has threatened violence to his wife, Mrs. Mary Russell of 6527 Kimbark avenue. Her home was still guarded, as it has been since he escaped last Tuesday from an Oklahoma state prison guard at McAlester.

Reported in Two Counties.

In his will o' the wisp flight Russell was reported yesterday at Salem, in Marion county, and at Mount Vernon in Jefferson county. A man said to have boarded a Milwaukee road train at Emmetsburg, Ia., had vanished when the train reached Fox Lake.

This attracted attention because Russell was believed to have been seen Saturday at Emmetsburg. From Emmetsburg he was believed by some to have gone to Kansas City, where a man resembling him stole a police captain's automobile early yesterday.

Authorities were unable to explain, however, why Russell should have gone either to Emmetsburg or to Kansas City, since he had apparently come east after his escape. Last Friday William Scott Hamilton, a young Kansan whom Russell is believed to have forced to drive him to Illinois, was found shot to death at Ringwood, in McHenry county.

Find Car in Wisconsin.

Hamilton's car was later found at Kenosha, Wis., where a man believed to have been Russell kidnaped another young man and compelled him to drive to Elgin. The kidnaper headed for Chicago after forcing the driver out near Elgin.

The search shifted suddenly to Salem yesterday after a deputy sheriff's car was forced from the road by a car with Missouri licenses. It was suspected that Russell might have invaded the district in the Kansas City police captain's automobile. Theft of an automobile at Mount Vernon, 30 miles south, caused another flurry.

A warant charging Russell with the murder of Hamilton was issued at Kenosha yesterday.

French Committee Denies Links to Nazi Propaganda

PARIS, July 17.—(AP)—Fernand de Brinon, vice chairman of the France-Germany committee, demanded a full investigation tonight of published charges that the group was closely connected with a Nazi propaganda ring. His request came after newspaper assertions that the group, organized for the avowed purpose of bettering relations between France and Germany, had Otto Abetz, expelled German agent, as an active member.

WARREN H. ORR OPENS LAW OFFICE; FORMER SUPREME COURT CHIEF

Warren H. Orr.

Warren H. Orr, who retired from the Illinois Supreme court in June, opened law offices yesterday in the Marshall Field building at 135 South La Salle street. He will specialize in appellate cases in partnership with his son, Wallace, a recent graduate of the University of Illinois law school, and William I. Hynds, Mr. Orr's secretary during his years on the Supreme court bench.

Mr. Orr was elected to the Supreme court in 1930 from the Rock Island-Quincy district. Previously, as a resident of Carthage, he served twelve years as Hancock county judge. He was chief justice of the Supreme court from 1933 to 1934. After retiring from the high court, Mr. Orr moved from Rock Island to Chicago with his family.

JOB SALE DENIED BY KONKOWSKI AS DEFENSE BEGINS

Frank E. Konkowski, former alderman of the 26th ward, and Stephen Idzikowski, one of his political aids, began their defense in Criminal court yesterday in their second trial on charges of conspiracy to defraud in the alleged sale of a police job. Judge William J. Lindsay is expected to give the case to the jury late today.

Assistant State's Attorney Thomas Bugan rested the state's case after Judge Lindsay refused to allow him to read to the jury an alleged confession made by Idzikowski. The document accused Konkowski of inspiring an attempt to bribe Paul Rozek, the state's principal witness.

Questioned by Defense Attorney James M. Burke, both defendants denied accepting money from any applicant for a police job.

VETOES MEDICAL CARE FOR STATE FOREIGN SERVICE

Washington, D. C., July 17.—(AP)—President Roosevelt vetoed today a bill to provide hospitalization and medical and dental care for foreign service employés of the state department. Such care now is confined almost entirely to the army, navy and coast guard.

"There seems no reason," Mr. Roosevelt wrote the house, "why such facilities should be extended to officers and employés in the foreign service within the state department without including all the other employés within the state department. If this is done for the state department it should logically be done for the employés of other departments."

KEEPS SUSPECT'S PHOTO IN MIND A YEAR; JAILS HIM

Mrs. Anna Otradovec, 58 years old, a widow who in January, 1938, lost her savings of $4,000 to a pair of confidence men, identified a prisoner at the detective bureau yesterday as one of the swindlers.

He said his name was Eli Doych, 44 years old, a bartender living at 20 South Canal street. Sergt. John Warren of the confidence detail arrested him when he recognized Doych's face from a bureau of identification photograph identified by Mrs. Otradovec a year ago.

The widow lost her money through the timeworn charity racket in which the victim is asked to aid in the distribution of a legacy to needy persons. Mrs. Otradovec posted her $4,000 as a guarantee of her honesty and never saw the money again. She lives at 1926 South Lawndale avenue.

LINZ, Germany, July 17.—(AP)—Valentine Zeileis, known as "the wonder doctor" of Gallspach, died today of an injury suffered in his laboratory. He worked with high frequency electrical current in treating his patients. Zeileis was 66 years old. His methods were frequently opposed by medical circles and the institute was closed several times.

HEARING IS SET FOR UNION CHIEF ON GUN CHARGE

Judge John F. Haas of the Criminal court yesterday set next Monday for a hearing on preliminary motions in the trial of George Henneman, head of Local 191 of the painters' union, on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. Henneman was arrested June 27 in a tavern at 5432 Wentworth avenue.

His attorney, John V. Clinnin, announced that he would move to dismiss the indictment and suppress the evidence on the basis of an Illinois Supreme court decision in 1937. In that decision the court overturned Henneman's conviction on a similar charge, holding that police had no right to search him.

Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant state's attorney, who will direct the prosecution, said the state is ready and anxious for an early trial.

BUILDERS OF CHICAGO (3)

By CALEB

HUMBLE origins, coupled with shining destinies, seem to distinguish the life-stories of Chicago's founders. Particularly is this true of the city's first mayor and first bank president—William B. Ogden. Add to these distinctions his fame as canal and railroad builder, iron and lumber king, landowner and college president—and you have a picturesque summary of this outstanding Chicagoan of the long ago yesterdays.

The forested wilds of Delaware County, New York, whence his grandfather, a Revolutionary officer, had migrated from New Jersey, became Ogden's birthplace on June 15, 1805. As he wrote of himself, he "was born close to a sawmill, early left an orphan, graduated from a log schoolhouse, and at fourteen fancied I could do anything I turned my hand to, and that nothing was impossible." At sixteen, he found himself head of a fatherless family, and entered business. Elected to the New York legislature, he was among the first to endorse state support of the New York & Erie Railroad.

At thirty, Ogden arrived in Chicago to represent the American Land Company—and such was his promise as citizen and civic leader, that when the town was chartered as a city, two years later, his election as first mayor followed. Almost immediately, financial panic struck the young metropolis—and to its new mayor's everlasting credit is the fearlessness with which he bade Chicago conceal its losses, pay its debts to the last dollar, and avoid the repudiation which was advocated on all sides. Ogden won—and Chicago's honor won with him.

An equally signal triumph of his public career was sponsorship of the first railroad running out of Chicago . . . the Galena & Chicago Union, predecessor of the present Chicago & North Western. Other roads to north, west and south also owed their success in part to his indefatigable efforts—for his lifelong ambition was to make every farm of the great Northwest accessible by rail to this growing trade-center.

Not till two years before his death did Ogden marry—his bride being Miss Mary Arnot, daughter of Judge Arnot, of Elmira, N. Y. Resigning from the various enterprises with which he had long been identified, he retired to his palatial home on the Harlem River, dying there August 3, 1877. Ogden Boulevard still commemorates his sturdy contributions to the prowess and progress of a great city.

There's a Good Reason You're Constipated!

When there's something wrong with you, the first rule is: get at the cause. If you are constipated, don't endure it first and cure it afterward. Find out what's giving you the trouble.

Chances are it's simple if you eat the super-refined foods most people do: meat, white bread, potatoes. It's likely you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is your trouble, you should eat a natural "bulk" producing food—such a one as the crunchy, toasted, ready-to-eat cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran. All-Bran is the ounce of prevention that's worth a pound of emergency relief. Eat it every day, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

SPEEDY FIGHTING PLANES TO GUARD BRITAIN IN AIR

Carry 8 Machine Guns, Four in Each Wing.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 17.—If war comes to England within the next year the planes that will do battle with air raiders will be Hurricane and Spitfire single seat fighters. During the last few days I have been visiting factories where these airplanes are constructed and tested.

Both are being built in enormous quantities. Orders for 1,500 of the Spitfires have been given by the air ministry and more than 1,000 of the Hurricanes are being built. Both the machines are different from American fighters and as such merit a general description.

Rolls-Royce V-12 liquid cooled motors delivering 1,035 horsepower are used in both these planes, and each fighter carries eight machine guns—four in each wing. Both are low-wing monoplanes with retractile landing gear and enclosed cockpits.

Spitfire Is Modern Plane.

The Spitfires are the faster, the official speed being 367 miles an hour at 18,000 feet. This is a modern plane with metal "skin" on wings and fuselage. It is small by European standards, having a span of thirty-six feet and length of thirty feet. It weighs 5,000 pounds when fully loaded with pilot, ammunition and fuel for two hours' flight.

Maj. Alex de Seversky, who spent seven months in Europe studying military design, says he believes the Spitfire is the fastest fighter now in regular service. Maj. Seversky is the designer of the American P-35 pursuit plane and has spent some time studying recent German machines.

The cockpit of the Spitfire is cramped and small compared to American fighters and should the machine overturn in landing the pilot probably would be crushed because there is no brace in the cockpit to prevent it as in American planes.

"It would cost fifteen miles an hour in speed because of the bulk and weight of a brace," I was told. "American fighters have a regular greenhouse for a cockpit. Why penalize the whole air force fifteen miles an hour in a fighting plane for the one ham-handed or unlucky pilot who would have a bad landing."

500 New Fighters Ready.

A split flap is standard on the Spitfire and the plane lands at sixty-four miles an hour, thanks to a light wing-loading. With flap up the Spitfire flies like a racing airplane, but with it down it is like one of the old biplanes, pilots say. American fighters land at eighty-five miles an hour and require more skill for safe flight.

Only recently has the Spitfire been delivered in any quantity. England has approximately 500 of the new fighters flying and more than 350 of the Hurricane type. The Hurricanes were designed in 1936 to meet a tragic need for a 300 mile an hour airplane.

The framework of this machine is steel and aluminum alloy tubing bolted together. It is covered with fabric. This is an obsolete type of construction but it was adopted because the English factories at that time lacked machine tools for building the "stressed skin" type of plane.

The result is that the Hurricane is heavy, weight 6,000 pounds. The wing span is forty feet and length thirty-one feet. When the first Hurricanes were delivered they had wooden fixed-pitch propellers and top speed was 331 miles an hour. Now they are delivered with British and American constant speed propellers—propellers that automatically change pitch in flight—and top speed is 338 miles an hour.

Easily Maneuvered.

British pilots say the Hurricane is more easily maneuvered than the Spitfire. It's landing speed is sixty miles an hour and the plane glides in to land at seventy-five miles an hour. It has a split flap to increase the angle of the glide.

The great difference between the British fighters and the American machines is in flying range. American planes carry from 150 to 200 gallons of fuel—enough for 1,200 miles flying. The British ships carry from 75 to 100 gallons, barely enough for 600 miles at the most economical throttle and mixture setting.

The Rolls-Royce motors are extremely reliable, some of them having been flown for 700 hours between overhauls. These motors will develop 1,250 horse power if 100 octane fuel is used. Although all flying now is with eighty-seven octane gasoline there will be an immediate switch to 100 octane in case of war.

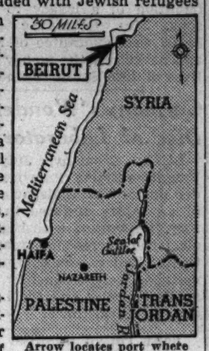
PESTILENCE HITS JEWISH EXILES ON 2 GERMAN SHIPS

Wandering Boats Receive Temporary Refuge.

PARIS, July 17.—(AP)—Two German steamers loaded with Jewish refugees have been given temporary refuge at Beirut, Lebanon, following the outbreak of a pestilential disease among the passengers, French authorities announced today.

The disease developed after a wave of suicides was reported among the refugees who despaired of finding a haven after weeks of wandering.



Arrow locates port where Jewish refugees found temporary haven.

The steamers Breslau and Osiris, carrying a total of more than 1,000 passengers, were admitted to the Beirut harbor.

Ship Puts Back to Sea.

Another refugee laden German ship, the Thessaly, was found to be free from disease and was obliged to put back to sea with her 800 passengers. A fourth ship, with 700 on board, was reported cruising in the same region seeking to land its refugees.

The four ships all together have aboard 2,560 refugees, including many women and children.

Turned away from the Palestine coast by British destroyers, skippers of the vessels reported they finally were allowed to enter Turkish ports for food supplies before being forced out to sea.

[Palestine Jews on Sunday demanded that local authorities in the Holy Land assist in disembarking the refugees despite the recently announced six month immigration ban. The immigration stoppage was announced last Wednesday by the British colonial secretary, Malcolm MacDonald. He said there had been "an organized attempt to defeat the proper regulation of immigration by a trafic of illegal immigrants."]

BRITAIN REVEALS PLAN TO CONTROL UTILITIES IN WAR

LONDON, July 17.—(AP)—Geoffrey Lloyd, secretary of mines, announced in the house of commons today a comprehensive plan for wartime control over production and distribution of coal, gas, and electricity.

Lloyd said a system of priorities would be established to insure a supply of coal essential to industries. He added that a scheme for regulating supplies of fuel to domestic consumers had been prepared and would be administered through local authorities.

A departmental staf required to operate the plan already has been organized, he said, and could be brought into immediate action in an emergency.

Omaha, Neb., July 17.—[Special.]—Oliver Fairbrass expressed the hope today that his crops will bring him sufficient money to buy another horse so he won't have to hitch himself to a wagon to do his haying next year. Four of the five horses died, so Fairbrass, 51 years old, harnessed himself beside his 16 year old mare, Queen, to do his harvesting. Mrs. Fairbrass drove the heavy hay rick while a daughter helped chock the wheels on the down slopes.

TELLS GERMANS OVEREATING IS AN ACT OF TREASON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 17.—"To eat too much is not only bad for the health but is also a form of high treason," Prof. Wirz, member of the expert council for national health, said in a speech at Stuttgart today.

He asserted that Germans are overeating—especially in so far as meat and fats are concerned. This he branded as "evidence of unbridled greed." Prof. Wirz suggested that all restaurants and canteens be compelled to reduce the amount of meat and fat they sell by 10 to 20 per cent. Coffee rations have been greatly decreased in recent weeks.

ASKS CONGRESS BUILD NEW PLANE 'LAB' IN INTERIOR

Hoosier Stresses Safety and Utility of Plan.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 17.—A demand that the proposed government aeronautical research station be located in the middle west was voiced in the house today by Representative Louis Ludlow [D., Ind.].

Representative Louis Ludlow.

The location of the new air laboratory has been fixed tentatively for Sunnyvale, Cal. Ludlow declared this site is vulnerable to attack by an enemy and argued that the station should be located in the interior where it would be immune.

Reviews Military Needs.

"In the opinion of our experts on air defense," Ludlow told the house members, "conditions now existing and forecast make the establishment of another aeronautical research station of military necessity.

"We have one such station at Langley, Va., and it is proposed to establish another at Sunnyvale, Cal. This would mean that we would have two research stations, both at sea level, both located on the coast and both vulnerable to enemy attack.

"There are many persons who believe it would be conducive to more favorable results and in the national interest if the new station were located somewhere in the interior of our country, where it would be immune from enemy assaults and where the altitude is higher than sea level.

"It is believed by these advisers that the best aeronautical experiments can be carried on with one station located on the coast at sea level and the other in the interior, with the advantage of higher altitude."

Urges Indianapolis As Site.

Ludlow suggested his home city of Indianapolis as a site for the new station.

Ludlow read to the house a letter from G. W. Lewis, director of aeronautical research of the national advisory board for aeronautics. Lewis wrote that he just had returned from a visit to England, Germany, and France, and was more than ever convinced of the need for one or more additional air research laboratories.

"The expansion of research laboratory facilities in Germany was particularly impressive," Lewis wrote. "If this country is to take its place in the development of aviation, we must provide more laboratory facilities.

"The United States has embarked upon a greatly extended program of aviation activity in the army and navy. To safeguard the expenditure in carrying out this program, it is essential that adequate research facilities be available."

Comparison of data on airports of Chicago and New York which indicate superiority of the latter's facilities for handling the huge land planes and flying ocean liners of the future.

DAVIES RETURNS FROM BELGIUM FOR A VACATION

New York, July 17. — [Special.] — Joseph E. Davies, United States ambassador to Belgium, arrived home today for a two months' vacation and immediately quashed the report that he intended to resign his post. "There is no truth in it," Davies said.

Joseph E. Davies.

The ambassador said that he hoped to remain here two full months, but remarked that affairs in Europe might force his return to Belgium earlier. "I would want to be on my job there if there is trouble," he said.

Also aboard the liner was a party of ten men and one woman headed by an Indian potentate. He was the 31 year old maharajah of Tripura, an Indian state of 4,500 square miles. The maharajah has ruled over the million inhabitants since he was 19. In his party were his sister, the ranee of Baria; a brother, Prince D. K. Dev Varman, and a first cousin, Prince R. K. Dev Varman, as well as a secretary and a number of servants.

N.Y. OUTSTRIPPING CHICAGO RAPIDLY IN AIR FACILITIES

Municipal Port Outclassed by Project in East.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 17.—New York City is rapidly outstripping Chicago in landing fields and facilities for handling the huge land planes and flying ocean liners of the future, a survey showed today.

Built on filled-in land at the city's doorstep and with an eye to the future, North Beach airport is approaching completion. North Beach outclasses Chicago's Municipal airport in every way. It is nearer to the heart of the city, its runways are longer and approaches are more free, its hangar and administration buildings are much larger, and there are facilities for the big clipper seaplanes.

On the other hand, there are aviation experts here who can forsee the day when passenger and express planes from Europe will make their first and only stop at Chicago, that is if Chicago has the airport facilities. Chicago may rely on New York as its seaport, because of geographical location, but won't have to accept the eastern city as its trans-Atlantic airport.

Route Favors Chicago.

According to figures supplied by the naval hydrographic service, the distance between Chicago and London by way of the great circle route is only 4,191 land miles, while London to New York is 3,892 miles.

Since this difference is only 299 miles, it would not pay to have ocean going planes land, unload, refuel, and take off at New York when they are bound for Chicago.

New York is preparing a superairport in the North Beach development. When completed it will cost between 45 and 50 million dollars, with the federal government, through WPA, and the city each paying about half the bill. Construction has bogged down at present as a result of WPA strikes, but city officials hope to open North Beach before the first snow flies.

Two Airports Compared.

A comparison of North Beach airport and the Chicago Municipal airport on essential points follows:

1. Accessibility—Driving time from Chicago Municipal airport to the loop, a distance of 12 miles, takes about 40 to 45 minutes. Driving from North Beach to the Grand Central and Times Square areas of New York takes about 20 to 25 minutes. North Beach is located between Bowery bay and Flushing bay three miles east of the Triborough bridge leading to Manhattan.

2. Area—Chicago airport covers 620 acres, but of this only 300 acres can be used because remainder of ground is cut off by railroad tracks. North Beach has 555 acres, of which 355 acres represent fill in Bowery bay.

3. Runways—Lengths of Chicago airport runways are: East and west, 5,000 feet; north and south, 2,490 feet, and each diagonal, 3,290 feet. North Beach airport runways are: Northwest and southeast, 6,000 feet; magnetic north and south, 5,000; east and west, 4,500, and true north and south, 3,533.

Only Land Approaches.

4. Approaches—Chicago airport, all approaches over land. There is a 450 foot gas container two miles southeast which interferes with the approach from that direction. North Beach, five approaches over water and one over land.

5. Hangars—Chicago airport has eighteen hangars, approximately 16,000 square feet in area. North Beach has three hangars for land planes nearly completed, three under construction, and three more to be built in future. Each hangar will cover approximately 71,750 square feet.

6. Administration buildings—Chicago airport administration building contains 20,000 square feet of floor space. North Beach has approximately 150,000 square feet of floor space.

7. Seaplane facilities—Chicago airport, none. North Beach has a seaplane hangar with about 113,000 square feet of floor space and seaplane administration building with 27,000 feet of floor space. Both will soon be completed.

Other Facilities Close By.

Besides North Beach, New York City has two other airports which are readily accessible. They are Newark airport at Newark, N. J., and Floyd Bennett field in Brooklyn. Driving time from either of these airports to the center of New York is about the same as from the Chicago Municipal airport to the loop.

Suburban and private fields also are closer to the hub of New York City than they are in Chicago. New York has two ports for flying boats and amphibians in the East river equipped with ramps, floats, turntables, and mooring facilities. One is at the foot of Wall street, a step from the financial district, and the other at the foot of 31st street, a quarter mile from the center of the city.

JUST AROUND THE CORNER.

The temporary national economic committee was set up to inquire into the causes of the Roosevelt depression. The short name for it—the monopoly investigating committee—is significant. It was in itself a prejudgment. The procedure of the investigation has allowed the SEC to present witnesses and thus largely determine the character of the opinion extracted or expounded. The commission has been, in part, a sounding board to amplify the ideas of the present framers of New Deal policies.

The New Dealers presented as their main thesis the Marxian doctrine that capitalism, free enterprise, and the profit system have broken down. Private financing, they say, has been given its trial and has failed. Therefore there is nothing for the government to do but to face the facts and extend the operations of the planned society and managed economy. This depression is then the final convulsion which Marx predicted would be the consequence of the increasingly devastating business cycles.

The committee has made a preliminary report which seems to base itself on the assumption that the country, with its resources of men and materials adequate to furnish plenty for all, has a stalled economic machine and "the people are unable to serve their own economic welfare." Mr. Roosevelt had asked the committee to discover, if it could, why the idle money and the idle men could not be put to work and to find out what had caused the jam. What had been thrown into the gears?

The committee in effect replies that the country is suffering from incapacity of the private enterprisers to use the abundance of resources and to distribute the needed goods to the people. The committee finds that there is "no single element in the population which does not honestly desire to promote production and distribution."

Presumably it will be a more palatable form of communist theory if turpitude is not attributed to the capitalists, private financiers, and enterprisers. No one is morally responsible, all are men of goodwill, and it's just too bad that the system has collapsed. The New Deal may then view the wreckage with sorrow and take up the task which Karl Marx foresaw would be dropped upon the shoulders of government by capitalism when its knees finally gave way and it crashed of its own incompetent bulk.

It has been known for several years that it was the intention of the New Dealers so to shackle private enterprise that it would be unable to put money to work. This has been done by destroying profits. It has been done by expropriatory taxation, by harassment, and by repressive regulation. The business men who are called failures have been so beset that they have been unable to take the risks they would willingly assume if they could plan a year or two ahead without the fear that the government would make every venture hazardous and tax an enterprise out of its profits if it made any.

In such circumstances idle money fills the banks and although it can be had cheaply there are no takers. This is the excuse for Mr. Roosevelt's new spending program of nearly four billion dollars, which the New Dealers say would result in the eventual taking over by the government of the private enterprises it finances. There has been a conspiracy to make private enterprise appear to be a failure.

Before the communist scheme of state control can be put into effect the New Deal politicians with their power to destroy free economy must have prevented the production and distribution of goods, they must have continued unemployment on a large scale, they must have filled the warehouses with everything needed by the people in want, and they must have created a general despair to support their theory that only government ownership and operation will put the plants in production and get the goods moving into the national stream.

Mr. Roosevelt's administration has another year in which the final effort can be made to bring the country to a despairing acceptance of the communist economic theory. It may be that the country can survive that year without a complete loss of morale, but each day proves that the ordeal will be severe. There is greater turmoil and fear in the country now than there was last month. The beneficiaries of the New Deal's grants and subsidies are angrier than they have been before. Workers who get their pay from the government have become disorderly. The C. I. O., with the backing of the National Labor Relations board, is threatening to broaden out its attack upon industry. Mr. Wallace and his agricultural follies are coming to a showdown. The railroads are being forced into more precarious conditions.

The recommendations in the preliminary report of the economic committee appear to presume that the government may yet release capital investment by legal procedure against price fixing combinations. It might be difficult to reconcile the committee's statement that every element in the country honestly wants to promote recovery with its conclusion that new methods of prosecution should be provided with penalties which would further discourage any attempt to seek profit in the profit system.

The government debases the currency and constricts production to raise prices and goes after the thoroughly puzzled business man on the theory that his practices prevent the abundance of the country from reaching the people who need it.

Senator O'Mahoney's committee may be in need of the Seeing Eye to get it through the Marxist trafic. It may not see where it is stumbling.

MURDERERS AND POLITICIANS.

Between what the public knows and what it has every reason to suspect from past experience, it is hard to believe that the escape of the Oklahoma convict, Russell, was other than prearranged. It is hard to believe that any set of prison officials would have been so stupid as innocently to countenance the arrangements that made the escape possible. It would be impossible to hold such a belief if there were not the evidence that politics has placed men equally stupid in control of prisons before now.

Russell still is at liberty at this writing and, as is usual with such fugitives, is being reported at widely separated spots. It is well established, however, that he kidnaped a young salesman who was forced to drive him to the vicinity of Chicago and there murdered in brutal fashion.

Here is another gruesome exhibit of the alliance between politics and crime; the alliance that tries successively to prevent the detection of the criminal, to prevent his conviction, and which, in the event of failure in these earlier stages, works for a political parole and to defeat reform of the parole system, as such reform was defeated in Illinois.

When political hides are sufficiently thick the desperado is paroled, as Gov. McNutt paroled Dillinger. When the governor and his parole board are insufficiently calloused escape from the penitentiary is arranged, as happened so often in Indiana and now seems to have happened in Oklahoma, with tragic results to an innocent young man.

This is a good occasion on which to dedicate THE TRIBUNE anew to the overthfow of the politico-criminal alliance wherever it exists, and to redouble efforts to protect the innocent at the expense of criminals.

UNIVERSITY PROSPECTS.

The new president of Northwestern university, Dr. Franklyn Bliss Snyder, believes that private universities in this country can face the future with considerable confidence. Every one will agree with him that these institutions have performed a most useful service to the country over the years, a service which we can ill afford to lose now. Every one will hope that in spite of declining income from endowments resulting from New Deal interest rates and the enormously higher tax burdens on prospective donors, the money to support the endowed universities will continue to be forthcoming.

In this connection Philip Kinsley, who interviewed Dr. Snyder, called attention to the fact that among private educational institutions the small colleges, not the great universities, have been hardest hit in recent years. This is interesting, but it may mean only that the big institutions will be the next to feel the blow. The reduced yield from investment is already creating an acute problem for them and there is worse to come, for high taxation on incomes and estates is destroying the source of gifts. The prestige of the great universities may have helped thus far to limit the damage, but there is much reason to think that this prestige will wane when reduced resources restrict the activities of the great universities.

It seems likely, then, that leadership in education in this country will pass from the endowed to the tax supported universities unless a sharp reversal of governmental policy is adopted within the next few months or years. We may hope that if the private schools go under the state universities will prove equal to the task which will be thrust upon them. We may hope that the recent revelations regarding the administration of Louisiana State university will not be followed by similar scandals in other tax-supported institutions.

The tax-supported university is peculiarly at the mercy of the politicians, as recent events prove. Princeton is not a set-up for the book-burners as tax-supported Heidelberg was; unlike Louisiana State, Tulane cannot easily be looted by grafters in public office. The politicians pay the piper in the tax-supported schools and can call the tune if they want to. The danger is great and it must be faced.

Editorial of the Day

FEDERAL DEFICIT.
[Dallas Morning News.]

The nine year record of the federal budget, as tabulated by the Associated Press, is impressive and disturbing. Unless the trend is changed within a short time it will be alarming. For nine years, without exception, the federal treasury has registered a deficit and the fiscal year ended June 30 showed the third largest peace time deficit in the history of the country. It showed the largest peace time expenditures, and the fact that the deficit was not the largest was due only to increased taxation.

When President Roosevelt was campaigning for office he censured Hoover for an unbalanced budget and advocated a reduction of about 25 per cent in federal expenditures. When he came into office he decided that after all Mr. Hoover had been right about the big deficit—in fact, he decided that Mr. Hoover had not been right enough—so instead of stopping expenditures he speeded them up, and justified them on the theory that greater public expenditures would prime the business pump and bring taxes to balance the budget. He definitly laid down a schedule by which this could be done. This second policy of the President has worked no better than the first. His recent statements indicate that he has come around to an entirely new conception of public finance. He talks of "investments" and a public debt "which the country owes itself," and plans an all-time record-breaking expenditure of federal funds for the next fiscal year.

If Mr. Roosevelt is right in his latest theory, then he is utterly wrong in both of his original theories and, furthermore, there has been something wrong with the management of all continuously unbalanced budgets in the past, because all of them, whether applying to public or private budgets, have resulted in disaster. There have been others before Mr. Roosevelt who have thought that they had discovered the solution to the problem of the law of conservation of energy as applied to finance, but none of them has been able to prove it in application. Neither will Mr. Roosevelt. The great wealth of the country will permit another year, or two, or three, of excessive spending, but it will be paid out of the pockets of those who come after us—the children for whose social security the present administration is so solicitous.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U. S. Pat. Office

GOOD-BY, "TEDDY" LINN

He would probably say, if his advice could be asked on this occasion, "Do not overburden the Line with obituary material. You had something of the sort yesterday." For he had been a reader of this column since its start, nearly forty years ago, and an occasional contributor. The verses dealing with the Munich crisis, signed "Jawell," [Oct. 6, 1938] marked his last appearance here.

Nevertheless we cannot let such an old friend, met so often in shining hours of table-talk, pass in silence. James Weber Linn, who inspired thousands of students to a serious interest in the art of writing, who lived eagerly in the general life of the city as well as in the quadrangles of the University of Chicago, who was journalist, novelist, biographer, public speaker and political campaigner as well as professor—such a vivid personality, such an aggressive career cannot end without testimony from every one who knew him. Wherever his colleagues, friends, and former students—all told, an amazing number—are meeting one another today, the burden of their conversation will be about "Teddy." Linn, and the sum of their opinion will be that he was the salt of the earth.

How many Blackfriars' shows have we selected, as judges of half-baked manuscripts, Teddy? How many committee meetings did we attend when we were founding the Tavern club? How often have we sat in earnest confabs about the prospects for the Maroon football teams? We knew you were dying slowly, for you told us so, with a grim sense of humor to soften the grievous news, but we had hoped to meet you at one more football dinner and to see you march once more with the Alpha Delta Phis at the interfraternity sing.

SONG OF THE MIDLANDS—IV.

(The Cities.)

Proudly the midland cities lift their spires
Where tepees crouched a little time ago,
Tall sentinels above the flaming fires
Wherein man's dreams are tempered; row on row
They flaunt the banners of their sovereignty;
And splendid names are graven on their shields,
The sacrifices to their destiny.
Now spacious highways have replaced the fields
And tangled forests, and a ceaseless stream
Of vibrant life blood pulses in their veins;
But they bear still, as wound stripes, every dream
Of those whose dying pledged these wide domains.
Now shining trumpets sound the cities' call;
The towers soar, invincible and tall.

To End All Romantic Sea Stories.

(From H. M. Tomlinson's introduction to "Great Sea Stories.")

There was the sailor who, during the war, was asked what he would do when released at last from the prow of his ship, where he watched for mines and periscopes and the loom of dirt of all kinds. "Well," he answered, "I shall put an oar over my shoulder and walk up-country with it, and walk and walk until I come to a place where they'll point to the oar and ask, 'What's that?' That will be the place for me. I'll settle down there."

A Tip-Off on Homo Americanus.

After last week's accident, which kept two people dangling 125 feet in the air for five hours, the parachute gadget at the New York Fair had an increase in business of 662 per cent.

EPITAPH TO A DOG.

This friendly wood lies hushed and still today
Where once we roamed together, you and I.
No hand of gay adventure beckons me
As once it seemed to do in days gone by.

It seems almost un-Christian that I grieve
So bitterly and long that you are dead—
"A dumb, unthinking brute—yes, just a dog
Of no proud lineage"—they said.

It may be you were dumb, you had no need
Of words to speak the language that we knew;
You had no need to prate of loyalty
Nor tell each day the faith you pledged anew.

We knew the call that brought our feet afield
Through sun and rain, through copse and wood and dell;
We knew the bond that marked our common creed—
Where master and his dog are, all is well.

You taught me love may go unrecompensed
And yet burn bright, a living, warming flame.
You taught me this—that loyalty can be Almost sublime, yet be without a name.

Why Not a Trap for Third Termites?

I goes home last evening and finds in my yard a contraption hanging from a steel stake. A nice note from the government at Washington informs me that this is a trap for Japanese beetles, and will be serviced free by an employé of the government. The purpose is to find out whether Japanese beetles have invaded my community, and particularly my property.

The little woman says to me, "Why the interest in Japanese beetles? It's a long trip here from Japan. Why not spend the time and money trapping the ants that seem to have invaded Washington, and particularly the official pants?" Why not, indeed, I ask you? Mergetroid.

FIND THE IRRITANT IN BRONCHIAL ASTHMA.

FAR from being strictly a winter affliction, bronchial asthma is just as likely to put in an appearance during the warmer season. It is one of our most distressing ailments and when a member of the family is seized with a paroxysm there is much scurrying about for something that will relieve it. We can look upon the condition as a misfortune rather than a disease because there is a constitutional tendency associated with its onset. Among several children in a susceptible group only one, however, may be affected. Nevertheless it is common. It occurs at all ages and occasionally follows recurring bouts with hay fever, eczema, or chronic colds.

What is the cause? We may assume that for every attack there is a "starter." This may be the inhalation of smoke, dust, or noxious gases—or overeating. Some investigators believe that extra physical exertion, as well as emotional upsets, should be numbered among the inciting factors. We can trace the malady directly to a substance to which the patient is sensitive [allergic], such as house dust, feathers, animal dandruff, pollens, face powders containing orris root, certain foods, or drugs. It makes little difference whether the offender is breathed in or swallowed. The result is much the same.

Is it liable to cause injury to the bronchial tubes and the lungs? Yes, after a time. Air sacs are likely to become overstretched and, as a result, they are not able to contract completely and thus squeeze out stale air. The bronchi usually contain an excessive quantity of mucus and, after months or years, chronic inflammation may become established permanently.

Why is it so difficult for the patient to breathe? Because material plugging the finer channels will prevent air from reaching all portions of the lungs. This is similar to the situation which exists in true bronchitis. In addition, the nervous system may bring about sharp contractions of the smaller branches, shutting off the outlet. In some instances the inflow of air may be relatively easy while exhalation is extremely difficult. The victim may inspire in great gasps, but he is able to expire only in a small stream and with effort.

After the identification of the distemper a search for the culprit is in order. If the sinuses are infected these areas should be drained, as bacterial absorption—minor though it be—may pull the trigger. We can keep away from cats and feathers, dogs and horses—if there seems to be the slightest sign of nasal irritation when in their vicinity.

Guilty foods may be detected if an elimination diary is kept. One article after another may be omitted until all discomfort disappears. Edibles may then be added gradually. Should symptoms follow we may regard the latest annexation to the menu with suspicion. If house dust, for example, is at fault, we may be able to render the patient nonsensitive by means of a vaccine. This applies with equal force to pollens, fungus spores, and other irritants.

Strangely enough, general remedies—the influence of which we do not understand—may be of value. These include fractional doses of iodine, the injection of iodized oil, postural drainage, or the taking of wheat germ oil.

In an acute attack the sufferer should be propped up in bed or allowed to rest comfortably in an easy chair. The most effective drug is epinephrin. A solution of one part to 100 of water is placed in a vaporizer and may be sprayed directly into the throat and thus drawn into the lungs. The same chemical may be introduced beneath the skin in dilutions of one part to 1,000 of water. The physician will know how frequently it is safe to repeat the dose and the proper strength to employ. Another similar preparation—ephedrin—is somewhat less helpful but its influence lasts longer.

If cyanosis is extreme, a mixture of helium and oxygen is one of our most valuable agents. There are many reports of cases in which the use of 80 per cent helium and 20 per cent oxygen has been life saving.

If pollens are responsible, a dustproof room, provided with a filter, is essential. This device will protect against any type of respiratory invader and is equally practical in hay fever.

PROBABLY WOULD INCREASE PAIN.

W. R. writes: If a stomach ulcer is present, would the taking of dilute hydrochloric acid irritate it, if this acid is deficient?

REPLY.

It is very rare for peptic ulcer to develop in persons who lack hydrochloric acid. Taking it would probably increase the pain, as the basis of treatment of this condition is neutralization of acid.

RED VEINS IN EYES.

B. F. writes: I have a red vein in each of my eyes, which is very noticeable. I wear glasses. Can anything be done for this condition?

REPLY.

Be sure that there is no irritation present. Have your lenses checked. Sometimes enlarged vessels remain permanently. A skilled eye physician should advise treatment.

HOT WEATHER THIRST.

Mrs. C. S. writes: During hot weather I develop such a thirst that I can hardly quench it. What to do?

REPLY.

It is possible that your system is lacking in salt. Occasionally a small amount of table salt will relieve this symptom, particularly when one perspires freely.

KIDS OUR SPELLING REFORM.

Chicago, July 13.—While browsing my daily browse through THE TRIBUNE'S pungent editorial columns, I was startled when my eyes came upon this opening paragraph in the Tuesday issue:

"Unslow, malswift, prol mean, proh noblesse, Atrahore, melancholores, nears; whose glauque eves glitt o'slimmed to limm; whose fingrings creep o'er skull; till quench, astern mist calls estarr and graw, honath Jon raves homes glowcoma."

It looked at first as though it might be an announcement of the next dreaded stage in THE TRIBUNE'S process of making familiar words appear unfamiliar, a process humorously referred to as "simplification."

When I read on I was comforted. The editorial, it turned out, was nothing fun delightfully of the baffling jargon used by James Joyce in "Finnegans Wake." The satire was especially surprising, because some of the Joyce language seemed right down THE TRIBUNE'S alley. Thus, "whose fingrings creep o'er skull," dropped a superfluous e from "finger" and made the word shorter and harder. It had the ring of pure Tribunese.

If the editors can find it possible to ridicule that author's dialect, perhaps they may soon cease making THE TRIBUNE the James Joyce of newspapers and restore it to the English language, where it belongs. WALLACE T. HUGHES.

LIFE NOT OVER AT 65.

Chicago, July 13.—There has been so much accomplished in adding to the years and joy of life expectancy, so much knowledge dispensed on how to live healthfully by wise eating and drinking! To those who abide by the rules of sane living, and are still going strong at 65, some reward should be given, thus creating zest in living.

But when one is 65, whether or not he has kept the rules of right living, he is ousted from civil service employment.

I suggest that every man or woman who can pass a severe physical and mental test be allowed to keep his or her job. How we would love spinach!

Why be put on a pension when one is fit and able? RAY NOEHLINGER.

WHY IS A SOCIAL WORKER?

Chicago, July 13.—Col. Harrington of the WPA says thousands of doctors, bankers, business executives and merchants are now working on WPA at hourly wages greatly below those to which they are accustomed. Will some one kindly advise why, with all this talent, the WPA has to resort to social service workers to fill the executive and personnel positions? But that would never do—the social workers [political leeches] must be taken care of along with political relatives. What is a social service worker and why? L. W.

RENT THE TRENCHES NOW?

Gary, Ind., July 14.—Now that President Roosevelt has virtually pledged our entanglement in the next European war, don't you think he ought to instruct Mr. Bullitt, our ambassador, to arrange now to rent the trenches our boys will need? He probably can obtain a discount from the French if paid well in advance. R. B.

WHEEL CHAIR SUBSTITUTES.

Chicago, July 14.—In another column of your paper there are many requests for wheel chairs. These are expensive and apt to be worn out by their first users.

Couldn't a simple substitute be used in many cases? The addition of ball bearing wheels, such as are used on beds, in casters, would make an efficient wheel chair for helpless patients. In this way chairs they already have could be used; the chair would need to be a strong one and the casters securely attached. For a larger chair the larger, rubber covered rollers such as are used on hospital beds would be better.

In this way the patient could use a comfortable chair. Wheel chairs are efficient but not comfortable.

To get a patient into another room or on a porch without a wheel chair, a box could be securely fastened to a child's express wagon or sled, from which the patient could be helped to a chair or couch, for a change.

A. E. FREESE.

ON DODGING THE BOSS.

Chicago, July 14.—As long as middle aged men continue to be emotionally sloppy, we thousands of secretaries will have to put up with repulsing the boss as part of our daily job. If they only knew how objectionable their advances are to most of us who must earn our own living! Invariably they are the men with charming, cultured wives, whose own conduct is as irreproachable as that of the average secretary. When I get too hot under the collar as a result of this senile behavior I remind myself "there's no fool like an old fool."

I have a job I like very much and work for and with a fine man, but he does have this middle aged man's tendency to yield weakly to his emotions.

A SECRETARY.

TO HONOR GRACE ABBOTT.

Chicago, July 14.—On June 20 there appeared in the "Voice of the People," signed by initials which I could not identify, the suggestion that Grace Abbott might be honored by having one of the city parks named for her. I should like, through you, to acknowledge this suggestion and to say that President Dunham of the Chicago park district has received the suggestion cordially and steps are being taken to bring this about.

Thank you for publishing the letter and appreciation for the writer of the letter.

SOPHONISBA P. BRECKINRIDGE.

PRESCRIBES A CABBAGE LEAF.

Chicago, July 14.—The heat apparently has been too much for H. P. S., who compares the Roosevelt flop to the "golden age of Pericles." He might find relief by wearing a fresh green cabbage leaf inside his hat. It is said to be helpful in averting heat attacks.

J. F. REMINGTON.

A BUILDING BOOM—SOME TIME.

Chicago, July 14.—The recent remarks of Mayor Kelly that we are about to have a building boom suggested to me that he is either a joker or has a low opinion of the intelligence of Chicagoans, for every thinking man knows that artificial costs of labor and material coupled with excessive taxes are a real barricade against even a half hearted return to building activities in this man's town.

There is another obstacle, namely, credit. What man in his right mind would think of investing a dollar in a building bond when there are thousands that can be had for the price of wall paper?

My father holds several so-called gold bonds on a thirty-two flat building [in receivership] on the far north side, in a comparatively new neighborhood, and for the last four years it has been about 93 per cent rented at an average rental of $45, yet not a cent has been paid to the bondholders or even a statement issued as to where the money goes.

I am, on second thought, inclined to agree with the mayor that we will have a building boom—some day—but not in his or mine. G. SWANSON.

THOSE PAYLESS VACATIONS.

Chicago, July 14.—Since it began four years ago thousands of persons have been steadily on WPA in good paying white collar and administrative jobs, without the loss of a single week's pay. During all this time relatively few of those people made any real effort to get private employment. Now they loudly protest the injustice of a thirty day payless vacation to be given all individuals continuously on the WPA pay roll for eighteen months or longer.

How many hard working people in private industry can boast steady employment the last four years? These persons have learned to look out for themselves when their jobs terminate. Why shouldn't white collar and administrative WPA workers, including the "big shots," be expected to do likewise for a period of thirty days? READER.

TREMBLES AT TICKET WINDOW.

Chicago, July 13.—The letter entitled "Rude Ticket Sellers" [referring to theater tickets] got me thinking how these men got their jobs and why. Any other salesman would be kicked out and yet these rude fellows go on and on. They must own stock or be a combine. Only the boss himself could act so and get away with it and all the bosses I have come in contact with have better judgment. When I am faced with the trial of buying theater tickets I put on my best clothes, take a deep breath, pull up to full height, square shoulders, and swagger up to the window, but have never yet had the courage to ask for a cheaper seat.

Have known a mink coat to have some effect. How about writing our congressman? AGNES JOHANSEN.

SALESMAN'S DRAWING ACCOUNT.

Chicago, July 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—For three years I have been working as a salesman and each week receiving a drawing account which has been applied against my commissions. A friend of mine has asked me to go into business with him.

1. Can the firm for which I work attach anything I own if I decide to leave at a time I am overdrawn?

2. Can I be held for the amount I have overdrawn? J. S.

1. If you are the head of a family your personal property exemption is $400 and your garnishment exemption is $20 per week. 2. Yes, if that is the agreement, as seems probable.

EX-JUDGE WILSON RECEIVER CASES UNDER SCRUTINY

Successor Starts Study of Court Records.

Records of 234 receivership and 180 trusteeship cases of former Circuit Judge Edwin L. Wilson of Will county yesterday were turned over for examination to his successor, Judge James V. Bartley.

The records were demanded by Judge Bartley last week. They cover all receiverships and trusteeships in the jurisdiction of the 12th judicial circuit, which is composed of Will, Kankakee, and Iroquois counties.

Judge Wilson's conduct in receivership cases was the subject of discussion during the recent judicial campaign, in which he was defeated for reelection.

Failure to Report Cited.

Judge Bartley said that in several of the cases receivers had made no reports to the court. Each case record shows the title of the case, the receiver, the date of appointment, and the date of the last report.

"It will take some time to examine each case record thoroughly," said Judge Bartley. "I don't want to say at this time just what I expect to find in each case. There may be no irregularities."

He said, however, that in long pending cases where receivers had not filed any reports he would issue a prompt rule ordering such reports to be made.

One of the possibilities suggested by Judge Bartley's request for the records was that he is planning to replace receivers named by Judge Wilson.

Asked about this report, Judge Bartley said: "That's a bridge that'll have to be crossed when we come to it. All I can say at this time is that there will be a complete examination, there will be certain orders entered, and that if certain cases warant it there will be certain action taken."

Judge Bartley said he probably will not complete his inquiry for at least three weeks. The records were prepared for him by Circuit Clerk George J. Buttell Jr.

DIVORCEE KILLS HER SLEEPING SON, 14, AND ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

New York, July 17.—[Special.]—Mrs. Celia Cohen, 32 years old, sent a bullet through the heart of her sleeping son, Billy, 14, early today and then tried to kill herself.

She was found on the floor of her room critically wounded and hysterical. She was taken to a hospital, charged with homicide.

Neighbors told detectives Mrs Cohen had brought her son to New York about two years ago from Georgia, after divorcing Berry Cohen, who is said to be an Atlanta bicycle dealer.

FOUND DEAD IN BED.

Robert Van Sant, 47 years old, a former employé in the city vehicle tax office, was found dead in bed yesterday in his room in the California hotel, 2847 Washington boulevard, apparently a victim of a heart attack.

AX THREAT PUTS BELLEVILLE SLOT MACHINES ON RUN

Aldermen Reveal Bribe Offers; Rap Police.

Belleville, Ill., July 17.—[Special.]—Slot machines disappeared from saloons, drug stores, cigar stores, confectioneries and restaurants in Belleville today after St. Louis operators heard about a threat of aldermen to start an ax campaign if the machines were not taken out and kept out.

Threats to smash every machine that could be found were made yesterday at a council caucus when Aldermen Clifford Thompson revealed that two men had offered him a bribe to overlook the machines.

"I guess they were the same two fellows who came to see me," Alderman Nicholas Mueller remarked.

Offered $100 Month.

"They told me I was a fool about slot machines," continued Thompson. "They said I could make $100 to $200 a month for myself if I was smart. I told them they had the wrong man."

Several aldermen said today that Belleville will have an entirely new police force soon unless slot machines are kept out of the city.

Mayor George Remnsnider left Belleville Saturday for California. He will be gone six weeks. E. W. Tieman, acting mayor, today said he had no information about 400 slot machines operating in the city, because he does not frequent places where they are in operation.

Down for Six Weeks.

Slot machines disappeared from Belleville for six weeks last spring after Attorney General John S. Cassidy announced a state wide drive against the devices, and Arthur S. Smith, chairman of the state liquor control commission, said licenses for the second half of the year would be denied any saloon keeper against whom a slot machine complaint was filed.

When the machines were returned to Belleville six weeks ago, they were kept in saloon back rooms and basements. Recently they have been brought out into the open and placed in dozens of other places of business.

ILLINOIS SCHOLARSHIP AT THE CITADEL OPENS; ASK FOR CANDIDATES

Charleston, S. C., July 17.—[Special.]—The names and records of candidates for a four year scholarship at The Citadel, military college here, have been requested of accredited high schools in Illinois cities, it was announced today by Gen. Charles P. Summerall, president of the school and former chief of staff of the United States army.

The gift of an Illinois citizen, the scholarship is limited to residents of that state. It recently was vacated by the graduation of Andrew A. Sabados of Aurora, who made an outstanding record in academic and extra-curricular work. No competitive examination is required for the scholarship and only one candidate may be nominated from each accredited high school.

Cadet William J. De Witt of Chicago, the holder of the Col. Robert R. McCormick scholarship at The Citadel, has been authorized by Gen. Summerall to wear gold stars on his collar during the next college semester as an award for academic excellence.

3 VOTE JUDGES FOUND GUILTY OF POLLS FRAUD

Three election judges were found guilty yesterday of contempt of court for voting irregularities at the April 12, 1938, primary in the Third precinct of the 24th ward. They were found guilty by County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki in a bench trial. Judge Jarecki indicated he would sentence each of them to a year in jail today. They also face criminal charges of conspiracy to violate the election laws, which carries a maximum sentence of five years in prison. A recount of Democratic ballots revealed discrepancies as great as 159 votes between candidates, according to John F. Cashen Jr., special prosecutor. Those found guilty were Joseph Levey, 3840 Fillmore street, Democratic judge; and Sidney Bank, 3911 Grenshaw street, and Harold Burmeister, 3925 Fillmore street, Republican judges.

Salvagers Get Wires Under Hull of Sunken British Sub

LIVERPOOL, July 17.—(AP)—Attempts to raise the sunken British submarine Thetis were resumed today when two new messenger wires were placed under the forward end of the keel. The salvage company planned to place lifting wires under the submersible, which sank off Liverpool with the loss of 99 lives during a practice dive on June 1. Cables snapped in a previous attempt on June 8 to raise the Thetis.

G. O. P. DECLINES TO HOLD RALLY AT STATE FAIR

Charge Democrats with Discourtesies.

Springfield, Ill., July 17.—[Special.]—Incensed over what they termed discourtesies by the Democratic state administration, G. O. P. leaders today decided not to hold a Republican day program at the Illinois state fair this year.

They charged that the invitation to participate in the fair came too late to permit arrangements for it, that state police had broken up last year's G. O. P. parade, and that members of the party were treated to "disgraceful exhibitions of discourtesy" at the fairs of 1936 and 1938.

Instead of risking the possibility of similar treatment this year, G. O. P. leaders said, the party will concentrate its efforts on presenting a great demonstration in Chicago at the Cook county Republican central committee's annual labor day picnic in Riverview park.

Last Years Bid in May.

An invitation to Republicans to hold their usual rally at the state fair, which opens here on Aug. 12, was not received until today, a few minutes before the start of a conference of a special G. O. P. committee created to study plans for the event. Last year's bid was issued in May.

Otherwise following the customary procedure, the invitation was from Gov. Horner and was sent by the state department of agriculture, which sponsors the fair.

The assembled conferees, including several members of the Republican state central committee and party leaders of Sangamon county, voted 7 to 1 against holding the rally. One committee member did not vote. About thirty persons participated in a round table discussion of the matter before the committee voted.

Democrats Are Assailed.

The meeting bristled with chargos against Democrats. Members of the committee accused the incumbent state administration of flagrant and wanton breaches of faith in connection with previous Republican day programs.

Judge Benjamin S. De Boice, of the Sangamon county Probate court, charged that the Republican parade to the 1938 fair was deliberately delayed and broken up by state police.

State Senator Earl B. Searcy of Springfield accused the state administration of deliberately violating, in connection with the G. O. P. days at the fairs in 1936 and 1938, its promises to extend every courtesy to the minority party.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by HOMER CROISZ

Study Drying of Hay.

July 17, 1939.

IN searching for better methods of making hay during wet weather, workers at the Du Page county farm have been studying the possibility of drying alfalfa and other hay crops with dehydrating machinery. No such process has been tried at the farm, but the men have found that mechanical dehydration of hay, especially alfalfa, is a regular practice in some localities.

Men who have had experience with dehydrated alfalfa say that the hay is of high quality but that the process of drying it is not practical for the average farm because of the expensive machinery required to do the work.

So far virtually all the dehydrating machines used for curing hay either are on unusually large farms or are operated on a community basis, the owner of the machine buying hay from farmers, processing it, and then selling the finished product to feed manufacturers.

Dropped on One Farm.

One large farm in southern Wisconsin that formerly used a dehydrating machine for curing alfalfa has discontinued the practice and sold its equipment. The manager of the farm says the process was satisfactory but that the cost was too great, considering the amount of money invested in the dehydrating equipment and the relatively short period each year that it was in use. This farm now makes hay in the regular way when weather permits and makes hay silage during rainy weather.

In making dehydrated alfalfa the practice is to take the green hay from the field as soon as possible after it is cut, chop it up in an ensilage cutter or hay chopper, and run it immediately through the dehydrating plant.

The moisture is quickly driven from the chopped hay as it passes through revolving drums that are heated to 1,000 or 1,500 degrees Fahrenheit, depending upon the amount of moisture in the hay. The dehydrated alfalfa then is cooled and put in sacks for storing. It may be sacked just as it comes from the drying drums or ground into alfalfa meal.

Process Quickly Completed.

One dryer on the market completes the entire process in less than four minutes. In that time the hay is chopped, dried, cooled, ground, and put in bags as alfalfa meal.

Makers of dehydrating equipment say the chief value of this system is not in being able to make hay in wet weather, but in making better feed at any time than can be made from sun-cured hay. They say that dehydrated hay is the nearest approach yet found to the natural plant in its green state. They say that more of the nutritive value of the hay is retained when it is dehydrated immediately after it is cut than when it is cured in the normal way.

Other advantages claimed for dehydrated alfalfa are the saving of leaves that shatter off in the field in handling dry hay and a saving of storage space when the hay is chopped or ground and put in bags. The manufacturers of the machinery say that the cost of dehydrating alfalfa usually runs from $4 to $6 per ton.

The heating plants are built to use fuel oil, but may be run with gas by installing special equipment. The machinery can be operated with tractors or with gasoline or electric motors.

Cunningham's command captured federal guns which may be seen today on the battlefield site.

ALPHONSE MUCHA, 79, FAMED MURAL PAINTER, IS DEAD

[Copyright: 1939: By The New York Times.]

PRAGUE, July 17.—Alphonse Mucha, famed as the creator of many murals depicting the history of the Slavic race, died last night at the age of 79. Born in Moravia, he went to Paris at an early age where he joined the modern style school of those days and won instant fame. Ardently patriotic, Mucha returned to Prague when Czecho-Slovakia was created and become a sort of painter laureate in the new state. He designed the first Czecho-Slovak banknotes and recently began work on a gigantic mural portraying Bohemia's history. The German occupation interrupted this labor of love and the shock it produced is said to have contributed to his death. Several of his murals, which had hung in the Chicago Art Institute, were brought here in 1920.

Herrmann died July 3 in Sturgeon Bay, Wis., after an auto accident.

SLOWLY BRINGING UP BODIES OF 28 KILLED IN MINE

Providence, Ky., July 17.—(AP)—One by one, the canvas-shrouded bodies of 28 mine explosion victims—nine of whom were found dead early today—were being brought to the surface tonight from the workings of the Duvin Coal company.

Nine of the bodies were those of the miners who barricaded themselves behind a brattice of jute 260 feet underground in an effort to "seal in" against deadly gas following the explosion Friday night which took the lives of nineteen others whose bodies were found Saturday.

Providence's committee of five leading citizens pushed ahead to raise $125,000 by popular subscription to care for the most destitute families of the victims.

F. V. Ruckman, president of the Duvin Coal company, said yesterday the company "is hopelessly broke, mortgaged, and owes a lot of money."

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

Our Town.

Hollywood, Cal., July 16.—George Walsh, ex-Fordham baseball star, acclaimed as the man of the hour. Walsh, now a hoss trainer, scored a surprise victory with his Lassator, which romped in at odds of $102 to $2. Brother Raoul is one of the better directors of the screen. . . . Both of them are huskies, and Raoul is probably the best rough-and-tumble fighter in the colony—on the rare occasions when he becomes provoked. Raoul is a smaller edition of Jack Dempsey. It was his ranch in the valley that Clark Gable bought as a honeymoon lodge for Carole Lombard. John McGraw, who knew something about athletes, said that George Walsh was the finest natural baseball pitcher he'd ever seen on a college diamond.

Proudest man in the colony, as the result of the victory of the Walsh trained Lassator, is my small Italian friend, Romeo Salta. I've written before in this space of Signor Salta, the former Trocadero waiter who parlayed all of his savings and opened a spaghetti restaurant on Melrose avenue. He calls it the Chianti, and therein he serves the finest spaghetti dinner west of the Rockies.

Romeo is proud of his spaghetti and noodles; prouder still of his customers. George Walsh is one of his customers, so this week little Romeo is in the seventh heaven of sheer pleasure, and I shall not be a bit surprised if hereafter he changes his menus to read, "Noodles Lassator." Romeo spends most of his time in the Chianti, but takes time off to attend previews of pictures in which his movie star customers appear. If they fly east, he bobs up at the airport to wish them godspeed. I've never met a more genuinly appreciative little man, and his spaghetti is terrific. I should not be at all startled if George Walsh woke up Lassator with a plate of it.

At the Nate Blumberg manse, Paramount's boss, Frank Freeman, the Jules Brulatours [Hope Hampton], Eastman-Kodak's Ted Curtis, the Jack Capps and Matty Fox. . . . The Nick Schencks are here for a few days. M-G-M's Nick Schenck is one of the finest men in the industry, so highly regarded that other companies, when they have a dispute with M-G-M, pick him as the referee. They know that his decision will be unaffected by his connections.

Here are my selections for Arch Ward's College All-Stars which will play the New York Giants at Soldiers' field Aug. 30: Ends — Young, Oklahoma, and Warren, Alabama; tackles, —Delaney, Holy Cross, and Twedell, Minnesota; guards — McGolderick, Notre Dame, and Jack, St. Mary's; center—McNeill, California; the back field—O'Brien, Texas Christian; Goldberg, Pittsburgh; Luckman, Columbia, and Weiss, Wisconsin. Tipton of Duke as the utility back.

"Beau Geste," "Each Dawn I Die" "Winter Carnival," and "Four Feathers" on the preview schedule this week. . . . Budget for "Drums Along the Mohawk," on location in Utah, included this: One [1] portable bathtub for Miss Colbert. . . . Jimmy Kern telling pals that Sir Stork will land at his home. . . . Joe E. Brown and Stu Erwin in a huddle. . . . Arthur Murray getting sunburned at the Beverly Hills hotel pool and confiding that he may open a dance studio out here.

Jeanette MacDonald chatting at the Brown Derby with Mrs. Rufus Le Maire. . . . Wire birthday greetings to Jimmy Cagney. . . . Lou Diamond and Helen Charleston cutting up a tango to Emil Coleman's music. . . . Everybody in town at Artie Stebbins' cocktail party for wife, the former Ann Darling. Nobody in town so feathery-looking as Mrs. Stebbins. . . . Franchot Tone, thinned out by his New York hospital siege.

Al Jolson being considered for the next Shirley Temple flicker as the result of exhibitor raves on his fine job in "Rose of Washington Square" . . . Frank McHugh says that what the country needs is not a good five cent cigar but men strong enough to smoke it. . . . Random reflection: Nobody in this colony can look so worried, consistently, as Hunt Stromberg.

Surprised that the newsreels haven't done a feature on the night school conducted at the local Fairfax High school. It offers a course in table decoration. Joan Blondell and other movie stars go there to learn how to arrange flowers, and they really become sensational at it. . . . Don Ameche grumbling at his bad luck as a horse owner. Of the twenty-two horses he owns with Lum and Abner, only one has won a race out here. . . . Mose Gumble and his sister seeing the town with Mrs. Phil Harris. . . . Harry Brand at the house of Murphy with the Harry Ritzes.

George Raft, who remembers lean days on Broadway, off for New York to be guest of honor at the world's fair. Local boy makes good in a perisphere and trylon setting. . . . I like Ann Sheridan's description: "Oomph is what they pour out of a makeup bottle." . . . Norma Shearer trying to arrange her trip so that she'll be at Madison Square Garden for the Harvest Moon ball agin. . . . Wayne Morris building a wading pool in back of the house—for the heir or heiress. . . . Young Florence Barbier of the Henry Ford clan posing for pictures with Cesar Romero in the 20th Century-Fox commissary. . . . Waitresses in the M-G-M commissary hovering solicitously over William Powell as the well liked star makes his reappearance. "He's one guy who's always nice to us," explains one of the older waitresses. Waiters and waitresses in this town spot the genuinly nice people from the phonies faster than you can say à la carte. Some of the biggies would be dismayed at the rating the waiters and waitresses give them.

Principles of Education in a Democracy Defined

Delegates to the conference of Administrative Officers of Public and Private Schools were told yesterday that there are two chief principles of administering public education in a democracy. They are [1] universal respect for individual human worth and dignity and [2] emphasis on cooperation for the common good. The speaker was Dr. Floyd W. Reeves of the University of Chicago. The meeting was held in the Judson court lounge at the university. Dr. Reeves advocated more equitable representation of the skilled trades, white collar occupations, and women on boards of education throughout the country.

Mrs. Cyrus Hall McCormick to Wed Easterner

THE news that she is to be married again will come as a surprise to all but the close friends of Mrs. Cyrus Hall McCormick, widow of the son of the developer of the reaper. For several months, however, Mrs. McCormick's intimates have known that she and a friend of her girlhood, Marshall Ludington Brown, are to be married this summer.

Just when the ceremony will take place has not been decided, but it is likely to be in or near Boston. It was in Dublin, N. H., at the summer home of Mrs. McCormick's niece, Mrs. Edric Amory Weld of Brookline, Mass., that the late Mr. McCormick's secretary for many years and he were married in 1927.

At that time Mr. McCormick was 67 and his bride was about 20 years younger. After a wedding trip to Europe they returned to make their home at Walden, in Lake Forest, and at the McCormick town house at 50 Huron street. Mrs. McCormick's present home is a fine old mansion at 20 East Burton place.

Mrs. McCormick Now on Motor Trip in East.

Mrs. McCormick is the former Alice Hoit, daughter of the late Elizabeth Sterrett and Jeremiah P. Hoit, who came to Chicago in 1843. She is on a motor trip in the east now, having left Chicago a week ago. Her sister, Mrs. Edward Mackey of Brookline, expects Mrs. McCormick soon for a visit at the Mackey summer home in Peterboro, N. H.

Mr. Brown, a bachelor, is the son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Robert Ludington Brown of Parkersburg, W. Va., where a sister, Mrs. Mason G. Ambler, still lives. Mr. Brown was a department manager for the Massachusetts Bonding and Insurance company, and lived on Beacon Hill, in Boston. Since leaving the company he has lived in Saranac Lake, N. Y.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Legs look much less naked and far more attractive when they're tanned—or made up to look as though they were. A new leg makeup is a tan tinted cream that makes the skin look slightly bronzed and very smooth and won't rub off on clothing.

Bronzed Legs Made to Order by New Makeup

We're not quite sure why tanned bare legs look more attractive and less naked than untanned ones. They just do. There is something a bit too undressed looking about the expanse of white flesh from the abbreviated skirt of a play suit down to the top of a short sock.

It doesn't do to go stockingless to the office or about your ordinary activities in a big city. But it's a most comfortable fashion for the country or for sports. Provided, of course, the leg is shapely, the skin smooth, and not too white.

The women who don't or won't tan but like to go without stockings on occasion will like a new synthetic skin tint. This is a cream, not at all expensive, that comes in three tan shades, light, medium, and dark. It's a good substitute for hosiery, and will stand up quite well if you apply it properly.

It's a creamy cream and must be applied evenly, neither too generously nor too sparingly, then allowed to dry. Spread it over a large area at a time and use a circular motion. When it dries dust off the surplus. You'll have a smooth, dry film that won't water spot or rub off on clothes or hose. It will look like sheer hose of a sun browned shade.

To get this leg makeup off you'll have to use soap and water—and plenty of it—and you'll have to scrub pretty vigorously.

Good-bye To Vienna

By Olga L. Rosmanith

(Copyright: 1939: By News Syndicate Company, Inc.)

SYNOPSIS.

An American girl and her Viennese sweetheart, Franz Gruenwald, in a café in Vienna hear a radio announcement of Hitler's entry into Austria. The girl, Marian Taylor, has been staying in Franz's home, studying voice. Franz fears for his foster father, Prof. von Plasy, author of a recent anti-Nazi book. He refuses to flee the country and leave his wife, Gisela, and son, Johann, who has the mind of a child. Leopoldine, a pro-Nazi woman surgeon, in love with Franz, warns him to send the American girl home. Her brother, Karl, is a Storm Trooper. Von Plasy is taken off to jail to die from shock. In order to take Gisela's money out of the country to deliver to her friend, Herr Wiedermann, in Riga, Marian invests it in rare stamps. Herr Speyer, the stamp merchant, guesses her purpose, but is sympathetic and asks her to deliver a picture to a friend of his in Riga, a Mme. Lonska. Franz loses his job. When Leopoldine secures one for him he accepts it for the sake of his dependents. In Riga Marian learns Herr Wiedermann is in love with Gisela and wants to arrange for her and Johann to come there. Mme. Lonska, she discovers, is a spy and that the picture from Herr Speyer was a message in code. Marian returns to Vienna. Franz persuades Gisela to go to Riga and leave Johann until a passport can be got for him. Franz spurns Leopoldine's offer to be his mistress. Next day Franz is seized by the Gestapo. Leopoldine's brother, Karl, a Storm Trooper, intrigued by Marian's beauty, helps Johann obtain a passport. Marian accepts Karl's invitation to dinner.

INSTALMENT XXXII.

INFATUATION.

Karl handed Marian into a sleek black car standing at the street door and slid deftly under the wheel on the other side.

As Karl piloted the car fast and skilfully round the back of the Burg theater, short cutting into the heart of the city, she wondered what Franz was doing. And if he were wondering what she was doing? And if so, would it ever occur to him in his wildest dreams that she was riding in a car with a Storm Trooper.

He parked in one of the narrow streets at the back of the Neuer Market. "This looks as if we're going into a cellar, but it's very nice down here."

The lackeys on the stairway were obsequious. He appeared to be well known. As they descended into the cool chill of the ancient metamorphosed wine cellar, they met with a burst of wild tzigane music which tugged at the heart and beat in the blood.

Karl clapped his hands in time to it as they sat at their table. His wooden face had become mobile and his dark eyes were shining. "You are Austrian," Marian reproached him. "You will always be Austrian. You will never be a good German."

"I am a very good German, kleines fräulein, but not when I come to Hungary for my supper."

"I know. I have read about it in the history of the old empire—how the Austrian soldiers became good for nothing when they were garrisoned in Budapest."

The unstiffening process was swift. He laughed joyously. "Not good for soldiers, fräulein. But not good for nothing. Ah, the wine, the music, the dancing, the perfume of the roses. You see I have been there myself."

"I see. One of the old emperor's picked emissaries. Quite a veteran no doubt——"

He explained to her later, now there was the question of the choice of food, the choice of wine. That settled there was the leader of the orchestra, who stood by the table leaning toward Marian while he played, gazing into her face. She kept it straight in spite of the artist's heavy aura of garlic, thinking how Franz would love this—how it would amuse him.

She was glad when the intimate and pushing violinist had gone, leaving her the freedom to look about her. Little lamplit booths lined the walls which were decorated with vivid murals of scenes of Hungary. The waiters as well as the musicians were in white Hungarian costume with scarlet sashes. It had atmosphere—the food was good, so was the music. It was soon evident it was a favorite haunt for lovers. She saw them in the other booths, oblivious of all but themselves, smiling, talking, gazing into each other's eyes. It made her heart fret. Will we ever be together again like that—free to love and be happy? Franz—Franz——

Karl leaned far back in his corner with his cigaret in his fingers and his wine before him and stared at Marian under his thick black lashes while she studied the paintings on the walls. It was too soon to show any emotion to her.

He called the Herr Ober for the bill.

When they climbed up the cellar stairs and emerged into the street it was as warm as midday, and the star studded night sky burned a water-clear Madonna blue. Marian looking up felt lifted into it and drowned in it. Awed by it and reassured by it. She said, "Herr Steinweg, please excuse me. But I'd rather not go into a stuffy night club on a night like this——"

She waited for him to say, "So? Too bad. Very well, I will take you home."

But he said adroitly, "I feel the same way. We could go to the Stadtpark, or we could go to Kobenzl."

Not Kobenzl with so many ghosts of happy hours with Franz among the café tables, the little streets of Grinzing, the heuriger gardens, the climbing paths among the trees.

"Very well—for a little while—let's try the Stadtpark."

Here was a big Hübner restaurant with two orchestras—one playing Vienna music beyond the great al fresco balcony, and one down at the side playing dance music for dancing under the sky, and playing it very well. The floor was crowded with expert, graceful young people. Karl Steinweg clicked his heels on the edge of the floor and took Marian into his arms. He was an exquisite, rhythmic dancer. "Born Viennese," Marian laughed in his ear, "you can't get way from it."

He took the little compliment as encouragement and responded by holding her closer. It was no use being troubled or making any sign that she resented it. The evening would soon be over—and then there would be no more.

But he leaned down to her and laid his cheek against her hair. Now his emotion was unmistakable. Whether for the evening, a week, or a year, he was becoming infatuated with her. She must begin to ask his advice about seeking news of Franz the next time they sat and rested under the trees at their little wine table. That would rebuff him without hurting his pride.

He whispered, "See how the people are looking at us. We look wonderful together—that is why they do it."

Marian could have laughed with her relief. He could not fall in love with anybody. He was too much in love with himself.

She told Karl she was a little tired and would like to watch the Viennese dancing. "It is interesting to me. It is so different from the American style."

"I would rather dance than watch—that is when I have a partner like you. You will feel better if you have a little more wine." He called the waiter and ordered some.

"You have done so much for me," Marian said, "I hardly like to ask anything more. But I really do need your advice."

Sweet words to Karl Steinweg, whose advice had never been given since no one would have heeded it. "Whatever I can tell you, I will. Ask away."

"It's this, then. You know, of course, that I came to see Fräulein Doktor because I thought she might know something about the reason Franz was taken away. She didn't know. She didn't know either to whom I should go to find out where he was. I've been to Herr Buerckel's office and seen an important official there, but he says they have no knowledge of him. What I want to know is, where should I go next? The hausmeister saw him go and is absolutely sure that the men who took him were secret police."

Karl was not cast down by her continued interest in Franz. It did not necessarily indicate that she was still—if she ever had been—deeply in love with him. She would consider it her duty to the von Plasy family. Look how happy she had been over the affair of Johann's passport, and what could that oaf of a boy mean to her but a responsibility she had taken on for a friend?

Clean Gloves and Hair and Right Perfume Aid Grooming

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Ever bring up the topic in your conversational hours, girls, as to what one discordant note in an ensemble most irritates you? We are all for these monologues, dialogues or "catalogues" as they've been called, between women, because they often succeed in pointing a moral with greater force than the written word.

For example, one night at the New York World's Fair a dashing femme made her entrance with a sophisticated young man. She, being the kind you do turn your eyes and conversation on, was being gone over critically. The sophisticated young man's taste in girls was being weighed. Presently, sighting at our table an acquaintance, he came over and the acquaintance point blank asked him what were the qualifications he required in a fair dinner partner. Quickly he responded with:

"Clean hair, clean gloves and a whiff of the right perfume."

The clean gloves were hopped upon at once as a theme for discussion, some holding that it was impossible to return home after an hour away even with a pair in presentable shape.

As the lightweight conversation developed, a soiled powder puff drew most scorn. Or maybe it was a tossup which was more devastating—the soiled puff or a not-fresh hankie. Soiled shoulder straps came in for the scorn they should, of course. Petticoat hems, not meant for show, were regarded as a slovenly cue. Soiled nails, obviously enough, were likewise unforgiven. But the cluttered, messy bag, with soiled lining, cigaret odor or loose tobacco, was voted unforgivable.

So it went on. As one, restoring her handbag to order later, said: "These critics with which we are surrounded have X-ray eyes. Nothing is kept from them."

And that's why we think discordant notes in ensembles make a very good conversational theme now and then.

The Housewife

An old, tried and true, pioneer days way of getting rid of mosquitoes, flies, bugs, and insects is to use a smudge, and we are interested to see that you can now get a ready-made, compact little smudge pot that will be a welcome part of your outdoor picnics and other good times. It won't take up much room in your car.

To use it simply loosen the top of the can and touch a match to the contents, which will flame up, then die down to a smudge. The odor is not at all unpleasant. You regulate the top according to the wind. To put it out just put the top on again, firmly. It can be lighted again and again.

Reasons for Child's Theft Lie Concealed

Where had the fourteen pennies gone?

The teacher opened the little box with a slit in its cover into which the children had been dropping money to pay for the new window box for their schoolroom. Every penny gone! For two days she had been thinking. Nothing like this had ever happened before. Why? Who? She kept asking herself—and just then a small messenger came into the room.

"Miss Drexel says that Carol forget her song book and may I get it, please? Which is her desk?"

Standing close beside it as she happened to be, it was the gesture of a moment for the teacher to open the desk, take out the book, and hand it to the child. Turning back to close the desk, she sighed a little. Such an impetuous, untidy child as Carol was . . . what under the sun was all this clutter? Idly she picked up what was apparently a paint rag used in the art class, but tucked up into a little ball. Still idly she shook it out to find that it wouldn't all shake out, because—because—there tied into one corner of it was exactly 14 cents in pennies!

Later and quite alone with her teacher Carol admitted she had taken the money, but tightly closed lips met every kindly attempt to find out why.

Mother being at the hospital, Carol's grandmother was asked if she would come to school the next day. The teacher told of her discovery, but cautioned the grandmother to warn Carol's father against any severity in questioning her about the episode of the 14 cents.

And why did he discover that his small daughter—just 8—had taken the money?

"Because, daddy, you and mother have been so worried about money all the time, and about the bills on your desk, and you said to Uncle Fred that you didn't know how you'd ever get mother and our new baby [break in voice] out of the hospital, because you have to pay your bill before they'll let you leave, and I thought maybe this money would help to get them back home. I don't want them to keep my mother there, and our little baby!"

Do you think perhaps your children don't take in what you say when you voice your fears, troubles, and grievances?

No behavior takes place without reason. Where signs of dishonesty appear look first for simple causes, then, if not successful, for deeper ones.

Your Stars ★ Today ★

By WYNN

Tuesday, July 18.

Morning and early afternoon today hold vibrations that tempt us to let go, to do things our better judgment will not approve of later. Best to rein in. Stay away from the new and untried, for there is too much impulse for safety. Evening improving.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead tests occupational status. Give more of self, work harder, cultivate older persons, especially from Sept. 1. Care with law, partnerships, travel. Investigate lures thoroughly. Danger: Feb. 4-15; June 14-July 3, 1940.

Tomorrow.

Stay in the rut in the morning. Afternoon sees improvement in emotional matters.

To get your 1939 Personal horoscope send 10 cents to Wynn, Tribune Astrologer, 286 Fifth avenue, New York City. Write plainly your name, date of birth, and address.

Chicago Woman's Club.

Alice Sheldon Clock, news commentator and book reviewer, will discuss John Gunther's book, "Inside Asia," at 11 o'clock tomorrow before the Chicago Woman's club at the clubhouse, 72 East 11th street. Mrs. Wilbur F. Blackford, summer activities chairman, has arranged this program, which will be followed by cards.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Corn on the cob, like fried chicken, is most thoroughly enjoyed in semi-seclusion, where social proprieties needn't stand in the way of full satisfaction.

But since table etiquet is necessary in order not to offend one's dinner companions, every corn lover must learn to control his impulses, and eat the golden kernels daintily, not like a horse stowing away field corn.

Large ears of corn should be broken into smaller pieces by the cook, so that the eating may be made more graceful. Only tender ears should be served, and the skewer-like handles made for the purpose are a great help in holding the hot corn.

Cook corn on the cob for ten minutes in boiling, salted water, and serve it hot with plenty of butter. Cut the kernels from the leftover ears and sauté them with green pepper and pimiento for a next-day luncheon dish. Or make them into a cream of corn soup, with a little onion for flavoring. Corn cut from the cob is delicious in vegetable salads, too.

Mexican Corn Salad
[Serves Four]

1½ cups cooked corn, cut from the cob
1 tablespoon chopped pimiento
3 green onions, sliced thinly
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
1 cup diced crisp cucumber
½ cup diced celery
Salt, mayonnaise or French dressing
Lettuce or other greens

Mix ingredients with enough dressing to moisten, and serve in lettuce cups or on other greens. This salad is excellent filled into tomato cups. Mayonnaise is the better dressing if the salad is made as a tomato cup filling.

Beet and Corn Salad
[Serves Four]

1 cup shredded cabbage
1 cup cooked corn
1 cup chopped beets
1 tablespoon minced onion
Salt, pepper
Sharp French or sour cream dressing
Greens

Combine ingredients with enough salt and pepper to season well, and add dressing to moisten. Serve on greens, in pimiento or cooked green pepper shells, or in tomato cups.

Seafood Luncheon Salad
[Serves Four]

1 cup chilled shrimp, salmon or crabmeat pieces
1 cup corn
½ cup chopped celery
2 hard cooked eggs, diced
Chili sauce dressing

Make the dressing with a third part mayonnaise, a third chili sauce, and a third sour cream. Add a few drops of lemon juice and a little salt, if needed. Combine ingredients and chill thoroughly. Serve on lettuce or other greens.

Big, Bad Gorilla a Star in Sally's Circus Party

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Tribune Charities, Inc.]

"Who's afraid of the big, bad gorilla?"

"Everybody" is the answer to that one, boys and girls!

I am, and you will be, too, if you come with me to see him on July 27. He's one of the stars of the new Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus which will soon be playing on the lake front, and he's really something to see. We can have a good look at him, too, because he's safely behind big steel bars in his air conditioned cage, and there's also a layer of thick glass between him and the rest of the world for safety's sake.

There are hundreds and hundreds of other interesting and exciting things to see at this circus, and fifty boys and fifty girls will have an opportunity to see them with me on July 27 if they can convince me that they just must be invited because they'd like it so well. I want as my guests the children to whom this treat will mean the most, and if you think you're one of those, get busy with pencil and paper and tell me why.

You can tell me anything you like, anything you think will help to win an invitation, but don't forget those three little things I always require—your full name, address, and age. Remember, too, that you can't win for friends by saying, "Please send a ticket for my pal, too," because each child must earn his own invitation.

If you're a real circus fan you shouldn't have a bit of trouble. But don't forget that Thursday's the deadline, and get that letter off to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

Woodlawn Old Settlers Attend Jubilee Dinner

A dinner for the first settlers of Woodlawn was held in the Hayes hotel, 6345 University avenue, last night. The affair was part of the golden jubilee celebration of the annexation of that district to the city. Mrs. Ralph A. Doyle, 10550 Racine avenue, who was born in Woodlawn in 1889, was guest of honor. John Hayes, who built the hotel three years later, was toastmaster.

Dear Miss Provines:

You and your brain teasers! I now have three scorched fingers, a wornout electric toaster, and twenty-seven assorted slices of partially burned bread scattered all over the place, and I still don't know the answer.

If a Columnist Must Play Games.

How about Dr. Philip Weintraub's game, collecting literary animals? Every creature in the literary zoo must be a pure figure of fancy. Even such relatively real creatures as white elephant, hairy ape, and snake in the grass are not admitted. There are 170 in the Weintraub assortment, including:

'fraid cat
calico cat holy cats literary lion lazy dog
dirty dog hot dog red herring
copy cat dog in the manger
ocean greyhound

Through Different Eyes.

Dear Miss Provines:

There's a dear little red brick schoolhouse about a mile from Chesterton, Ind., that's for rent. I ache for it, but my husband has so many practical objections. I see the nice colonial doorway, the tall, many-paned windows, the wainscote in the back rooms. He sees the broken windows, the sagging porch, the leaky roof.

A creek runs through a ravine, and great trees shade it. It is cool and peaceful and rents for about $5 a month.

Right Sort of Play Clothes

WOMAN'S AND MISS' PLAY TOGS.

The right sort of play clothes are important to the girl or woman who goes in for sports, as either a spectator or a participant. Two patterns today endeavor to augment your wardrobe for outdoor life.

No. 2797 offers a gored-skirt sunback frock for tennis, golf, and country club events. Straps at the back keep the dress well anchored to the silhouette. The front of the bodice is like that of any other dress, with shirtwaist collar that is stitched to match the self-fabric belt. All the summer cottons and linens are suitable fabrics, with white a leading favorite.

Printed cottons and linens are perfect mediums for the shirt-and-shorts costume that has a matching, detachable skirt. The blouse is typical shirtwaist, with plenty of shirring under the shoulder yoke to insure fullness for the sake of comfort and grace. The shorts are cut for attractive flare, and the skirt is the type that buttons all the way down the front.

Style No. 2797 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 16 requires 4⅛ yards of 39 inch material.

Style No. 2734 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 2½ yards of 39 inch material for the play suit and 1⅞ yards for the skirt.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central station, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

In many hands there are alternative bids which at first [and even second] sight seem to have precisely equal chances for success. At such times I strongly advise readers to take a third look. Some consideration may come to light that was previously too subtle or obscure to be perceptible.

♣ Q 10 9 4 3

SOUTH

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	1 spade	Pass
3 spades	Pass	4 clubs	Pass
4 no trump	Pass	6 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

Given the North-South hands as a bidding problem, very few players would detect any flaw in the above sequence. Taking bid by bid, they would have to approve North's one heart opening, South's spade response, and North's double raise. Then they would agree, I think, that South should make some sort of slam try, since he holds much better than North can expect from the noncommittal one spade response. Since the partnership was using the straight Culbertson system, including the 4-5 no trump convention, South, with only one ace, could not bid four no trump, and his four club bid as a marked cue bid and slam try will be approved generally. But when North, accepting this slam invitation, answers with one of his own [four no trump], South is unable to give all the information that North needs. South cannot respond with five no trump because he has neither two aces, nor one ace and the kings of all bid suits. He lacks the king of his own bid club suit. He cannot overcome this difficulty by jumping to six clubs, hence the best he can do is contract directly for a small slam in spades, the agreed suit. When this comes around to North the latter is hog-tied. For all North knows, South might have the following hand:

♠ K J 10 x x ♥ x x x ♦ K x ♣ A K x

If he has, a grand slam contract would be at the mercy of a double heart finesse. Patently, then, North cannot bid a grand slam, although on the actual combined holdings this higher contract is well justified.

This brings us to our original thesis, which is that alternative bids may not be quite so "equal" as we assume at first glance. Consider for a moment what would happen if South, instead of bidding four clubs over North's three hearts, were to select the alternative slam try of four diamonds. North, as before, would bid four no trump, but now South is in a beautiful position: He can respond with five no trump because he holds one ace and the kings of all bid suits! By bringing the diamond suit, instead of the club suit, into the picture, South has deliberately provided himself with the conventional answer to a four no trump bid which South should suspect that North probably will make!

And there we have the essence of preparedness in bidding, to foresee the probable course of events and lay the foundation for an entire sequence of revealing bids. Obviously, once North knows that South has the club ace and the kings of spades, hearts, and diamonds, he needs no courage or optimism to contract for thirteen tricks.

Obviously, there is nothing to the play. South merely has to ruff one of dummy's hearts to take, in all, four heart tricks, five spades, two diamonds, one club, and one diamond ruff in dummy.

Mrs. Cyrus Hall McCormick to Wed Easterner

seen together often during the past year while she has been living with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Sims.

It was in the Sims home at 112 East Bellevue place that the wedding took place at 7 o'clock in the evening. Only a handful of guests were present, including Judge Daniel P. Trude, an old friend, who read the wedding service, and Mrs. Trude. Mrs. Sims heard on Thursday that the wedding was planned for Saturday, so hurried home from the Sims ranch in Michigan to make arrangements for the wedding and the supper following.

Other guests were Dr. Peter C. Krupp, whose wife, the former Charlotte Sims, remained at the ranch; Edwin Sims Jr., whose wife is visiting her mother, Mrs. William Croft, in California; Mr. and Mrs. John Ford Evans [Priscilla Sims], and Miss Nancy McLaughlin, the bridegroom's daughter, who is a student at Wellesley.

The bride's other brother, Frank W. Sims, is in New York, and his wife is at the Sims ranch, so they will not be able to congratulate Mr. McLaughlin until he and his bride arrive at her summer home at the ranch probably next month. The McLaughlins have departed by motor for Canada, and will be at home in September at 1500 Lake Shore drive.

Mrs. Gammie has three children, Barbara, John, and Jimmy. Their father, John Gammie of New York, and the former Helen Sims were divorced recently, after having been separated for three years.

Tea Party to Benefit Rummage Shop.

Not even in the middle of a lazy summer do the women who run the White Elephant Rummage shop forget their duties toward this busy store in East Ohio street. In fact, one of the pleasantest parties the Rummage shop committee of the Children's Memorial hospital gives each year is a summer tea at the home of one of its members.

This year's tea will be given next Tuesday at the home of Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, 1455 North Lake road, Lake Forest. As usual, the price of admission will be an article to be sold at the shop. Or, in the words of the shop's poet, Mrs. Samuel D. Chase: "Some one said not long ago, 'What did we women do, when we had no place to send our secret failures to?' Come to Mrs. Cummings' the twenty-fifth at three, and bring a disappointment and see what you will see."

What they will see, in addition to stacks and stacks of gifts for the shop, will be "a magic man named Kismet," who has many tricks to show; a splendid view of the lake from Mrs. Cummings' stunning gardens, and an appetizing assortment of cakes, tea, cooling drinks.

Conductor to Be Guest at Two Parties This Week.

Vladimir Golschmann, who is guest conductor with the Chicago Symphony orchestra this week at Ravinia park, will be the guest at two parties this week. The George Voevodskys are entertaining at dinner for him tomorrow night. Following the concert Saturday night Mr. and Mrs. William N. Eisendrath Jr. will entertain for the conductor in their Glencoe home. Mr. Golschmann is staying with the Eisendraths during his Chicago engagement, which will conclude with Sunday afternoon's concert.

Any Yale alumnus who is able casually to toss away his invitation to the Chicago Yale club's annual outing next Friday at the Onwentsia must be too dull and conscientious for words. The clever, illustrated announcements should end any resistance to slipping away from the office for an afternoon of sports followed by dinner.

Listed on the committee by the informal names by which their Yale friends call them are Larry Williams, Ram Minor, Tom Connors, Chuck Morse, and Franny Stanton, five fun lovers who will see to it that every one has a good time. Mr. Lawrence is second vice president of the club, which is headed by Kent Clow. Lester Armour is the first vice president. Fred W. Fairman Jr. is the secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. Wirth Dunham, who has spent the last two years in Tucson, Ariz., has arrived in Wayne. She will spend the summer with her daughter, Mrs. John L. Dole.

Crowd Huddles Under Umbrellas at Park Concert

It was no fit night for man or beast, but the Grant park concert went on last night as though the sky were cloudless. Some sixty or seventy enthusiasts huddled together at the front of the enclosure, sketchily protected by umbrellas and raincoats from the unremitting rain.

On the stage, moved well back into the shell away from the elements, Glenn Cliffe Bainum and his band played a program devoted entirely to the works of contemporary American composers. The most sizable composition was the Symphony in C minor for concert band by Ernest C. Williams of New York, played for the first time in Chicago. The symphony is scored with great mastery and makes an impressive effect, although its actual musical material is rather obvious and conventional.

Olive Arthur, soprano, was soloist in an aria from Edward Collins' opera, "Daughter of the South," which received its first public performance on this occasion. C. S.

CHAMPAIGN CHIEF OF POLICE TELLS OF VICE ARRESTS

Testifies at Butts Trial; Two Get Jail Terms.

Urbana, Ill., July 17.—[Special.]—Chief of Police Clyde Davis of Champaign testified today that he and a deputy sherif were invited by three girls into an alleged disorderly house operated by Harry Butts within a mile of the University of Illinois campus.

The chief was a state witness against Butts, who went on trial before a jury late this afternoon on a charge of operating a house of prostitution. Butts was among about fifty persons indicted last spring in a sweeping investigation of vice and gambling in Champaign which followed the slaying of a university student near a disorderly house.

Chief Davis testified that last Oct. 12, at which time he was a police captain, he and Deputy Sherif John Rising strolled past the Butts house. Both men were in plain clothes.

Tells of Arresting Girls.

Three girls sitting on Butts' porch invited them in, Davis said. The officers walked on but returned later and again were invited into the house. This time they went in, Davis said, and arrested the three girls and Butts.

Fred Gerstung of Chicago, an investigator for the attorney general's office, preceded Chief Davis on the stand. He testified he ascertained, by living at the Butts home on two different occasions, that prostitution was practiced there.

Janet Logan, who once lived at the Butts home, will testify for the state when the trial is resumed tomorrow, it was announced by A. B. Dennis of Danville, assistant attorney general in charge of the prosecution.

Seven other defendants are expected to go on trial before juries in rapid succession after the Butts' case ends.

Earlier in the day two defendants indicted in the vice inquiry withdrew pleas of not guilty and pleaded guilty to charges of keeping disorderly houses.

Jail Sentences Imposed.

Circuit Judge F. B. Leonard imposed a six months' jail term and fine of $100 on Mrs. Loretta Humbracht. She is the widow of William Humbracht, who committed suicide last spring while authorities were hunting him for questioning about vice conditions.

A four months' jail sentence and a fine of $100 was imposed on Gus Humbracht, brother of William. He has been in the county jail since his arrest four months ago.

The grand jury investigation grew out of the fatal shooting of William Spurrier, 20 years old, a university sophomore. He was shot Feb. 16 in front of a disorderly house whose inmates were colored. Mrs. Margaret Strothers, operator of the house, was tried on a charge of murder but was freed by a jury after she testified she shot in defense of her home.

THREE GET LONG PRISON TERMS IN $425,950 HOLDUP

New York, July 17.—[Special.]—Thomas Quinn, Joseph Kress, and Stewart Wallace, convicted of complicity in the spectacular armored truck robbery at the Rubel Ice plant in Brooklyn on Aug. 21, 1934, in which $425,950 was stolen, were sentenced to long prison terms today.

Wallace, admitting his own guilt, told Judge William O'Dwyer in Kings county court that his accomplices were innocent. Wallace, who is 59 years old, made his unusual statement after he had received a flat prison term of thirty years, the legality of which he questioned.

"I want to make a statement," he shouted, "I'm guilty of this crime, but these two men are not. And I want to state that there were not ten men involved, but only nine, and these men are not two of the nine men who committed this crime. I'll have more to say about that later."

Quinn, who is 40, and Kress, 38, received terms of from ten to thirty years. All were convicted last Thursday by a jury.

Union Agent's Trial Is Set for Aug. 1 in Strike Slaying

Judge John F. Haas of the Criminal court yesterday set Aug. 1 for the murder trial of Oscar Kofkin, business agent of local 777 of the Taxicab Drivers' union. Kofkin has been identified by a state's witness as an occupant of the automobile from which shots were fired that killed James Lawrence, an employé of the Wieboldt stores, during the recent truck drivers' strike affecting the stores. Richard Devine, assistant state's attorney, said the state will ask the death penalty. Attorney A. L. Marovitz will defend Kofkin.

N. Y. PROSECUTOR'S AID ON TRIAL, ACCUSED OF ACCEPTING $800 BRIBE

New York, July 17.—[Special.]—Trial of Assistant District Attorney Alexander R. Baldwin, indicted on a charge of accepting an $800 bribe, opened today in Brooklyn Supreme court before Justice Francis D. McCurn.

Baldwin, 42 years old, is the third assistant of Brooklyn District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan to be indicted under Special Prosecutor John Harlan Amen. He has been suspended pending the outcome of the trial.

A panel of 150 talesmen was on hand for the start of this, the second criminal trial resulting from the Brooklyn corruption inquiry. Herman L. Weisman, Amen's assistant, is conducting the prosecution. Baldwin is alleged to have accepted the $800 from Isidore Juffe, a racketeer, to shield him from prosecution as a fourth offender.

"L" COLLECTOR ROBBED.

A colored gunman took $350 yesterday from Alexander F. Willis, 7608 North Ashland avenue, a collector for the elevated lines, as Willis climbed the stairs to the platform of the Morse avenue "L" station. The bandit fled in an automobile driven by another Negro.

SKIDMORE FIGHTS CLAIM OF $220,106 ON INCOME TAXES

William R. Skidmore, reputed collector for Chicago gambling syndicates, yesterday disputed the government's claim for $220,106 in income taxes, interest, and penalties for 1933-'37. His attorneys asked the board of tax appeals in Washington, D. C., to disallow the claims. Skidmore contended they were based erroneously on estimates of cash used in the scrap metal and investment business.

The government placed liens against all his property last February, after the filing of a jeopardy assessment for the $220,106. Skidmore owns an extensive estate in McHenry county, prize cattle, blooded draft horses, an apartment at 3500 Lake Shore drive, and a junk business at 2840 South Kedzie avenue.

His income tax payments also are to be taken up by a special grand jury when it completes a similar investigation of M. L. Annenberg, wealthy Philadelphia publisher and New Deal critic. The jury yesterday entered its seventh week of inquiry in the Annenberg case. It has heard 119 witnesses, according to United States Attorney William J. Campbell.

Carr, former Erie county Democratic chairman were indicted today on charges of conspiracy to obstruct laws pertaining to gambling. Twenty-three persons were named today by an extraordinary grand jury investigating municipal affairs. The indictments brought to 70 the number returned in the investigation, which has been underway for 20 months.

ALL-STAR CAMP AND GAME BOTH THRILL ISBELL

1938 Pass Thrower Recalls Victory.

BY CECIL ISBELL.
[Purdue Football Player: Member 1938 All-Star Team.]

Lafayette, Ind., July 17.—Football is a game of thrills, not only for the spectators, but also for the players. Last year's Chicago All-Star game was the acme of thrills for me. I know it will be the same for other college players on Aug. 30 this year.

Cecil Isbell.

The thrills associated with the game started with the voting that determined the squad, continued through the naming of the starting lineup and gained momentum with the colorful opening ceremonies before a crowd of around 75,000 persons.

It reached its climax in the game that had as its final feature that pass interception by Andy Uram of Minnesota which gave the All-Stars a 28 to 16 victory over the Washington Redskins.

Many Treasured Memories.

The game, of course, was the big moment for the spectators, but the players themselves, I am sure, would not separate the game from the entire training period when it comes to treasured memories.

The boys had fun, both on and off the gridiron. They enjoyed playing football—although the practice sessions were anything but a holiday—just as much as they enjoyed the unusual opportunity for pleasant fellowship with kindred spirits while housed on the Northwestern campus. Marty Schreyer, Jim Zachary, Clem Woltman, and myself, who happened to be the Purdue representatives on the squad, often have discussed the genuine fun that we had during the training period, as well as the many pleasant friendships that were formed.

Coaching Staff Tops.

As far as the game itself was concerned, it was self-evident that the coaching staff did a great job in orienting the team in nineteen days. Practically every system in football was represented, but the players showed a willingness to adapt themselves to the selected style of play.

One thing characterized the game. It was the intensity of play on the part of both teams. It was hard play, but clean play, as good football always is, and the players on both squads were concentrating so heavily on the actual play that I do not recall a single instance of scrimmage line bickering. There was no time to think up wise cracks. I've probably been hit harder in college, but I've never been hit so hard so many times as I was that night.

I am convinced that the main reason for the success of our passing attack against the Redskins was the effectiveness of the blocking provided by the All-Stars. We had plenty of time to spot our receivers, and once they were spotted they caught anything thrown in their general direction.

Rush Sammy Baugh.

And while we were getting excellent protection for these heaves to Sweeney, White, Kovatch, Rohm, Smith, Patrick, and others our own ends were doing a great job in rushing Sammy Baugh on his passing efforts, although he admittedly gave us plenty of trouble.

From Jim McDonald's opening place kick to Andy Uram's final forty-five yard dash with an intercepted pass the boys were playing with out one idea—win. Even when the Redskins shot ahead, 10 to 3, there was no frantic alarm on the All-Star side of the field, but rather a calm determination. "Just wait until we get the ball!" seemed to express the attitude, and when they did get the ball they went places with it.

C. Y. O. FIGHTERS READY FOR BOUTS WITH IRELAND

Squads End Drills for Battles Tomorrow.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The amateur boxing champions from Ireland and their opponents of the Catholic Youth organization are ready for the international fights tomorrow night in Soldiers' field. Both squads concluded their drills yesterday. The teams will confine their training today to gymnasium workouts and then will meet at noon tomorrow in the C. Y. O. gymnasium for physical examinations and to be weighed in.

All bouts tomorrow evening, intercity preliminaries and international, will consist of three rounds of two minutes each. The first preliminary bout will start at 8:15 o'clock. C. Y. O. officials yesterday estimated that a crowd of 30,000 would see the bouts, the proceeds from which support the C. Y. O. milk fund. Excellent seats in all sections remain, however, and they are priced at $2.20, $1.10, and 50 cents.

International Pairings.

Pairings for the international bouts follow:

112 pounds—Walter Cavalieri, C. Y. O., and Myles Doyle.
118 pounds—Frank Bausone, C. Y. O., and James Ingle, Ireland.
126 pounds [first bout]—Joe Du Pont, C. Y. O., and John Gaffney, Ireland.
126 pounds [second bout]—Ernest Wilson, C. Y. O., and Patrick Glennon, Ireland.
135 pounds—Eddie O'Connell, C. Y. O., and Patrick Gernon, Ireland.
147 pounds [first bout]—Saylor Canadeo, C. Y. O., and Charles Evenden, Ireland.
147 pounds [second bout]—Joe O'Connell, C. Y. O., and John McCormack, Ireland.
160 pounds—Isaiah Wells, C. Y. O., and James Price, Ireland.
175 pounds—Al Urlich, C. Y. O., and Stephen Sullivan, Ireland.
Heavyweights—Cornelius Young, C. Y. O., and Patrick O'Sullivan, Ireland.

Five members of the C. Y. O. team fought against Ireland last year when the Chicagoans won six bouts to four to continue their unprecedented record of never having been defeated in intercity or international competition. These boys are Cavalieri, DuPont, the O'Connell brothers, and Young. The C. Y. O. heavyweight, fighting in the 175 pound class last year, defeated Dick Hearns, who now is trainer of the Irish invaders. None of the current Irish team has fought in Chicago.

Seven Preliminaries Listed.

Seven preliminary bouts have been arranged between members of the Chicago C. Y. O. and Catholic Youth organizations in other cities. Six states are represented in the lineup which follows:

112 pounds—Ysavel Hidalgo, Fort Madison, Ia., and Al Noto, C. Y. O.
118 pounds—Jimmy Carpenter, Toledo, O., and Willie Moon, C. Y. O.

MACK DICTATES LETTERS; EATS CHICKEN DINNER

Philadelphia, Pa., July 17.—(AP)—Connie Mack has improved noticeably since returning from Boston on a stretcher nearly a month ago, it was reported tonight.

"He ate chicken yesterday," his son, Roy Mack, said. "That's the first solid food he has eaten since he returned. The doctors say he is improving rapidly and may be up and around sooner than expected. He felt well enough to dictate several letters, too."

Mack, 76 year old manager and president of the Philadelphia Athletics, is suffering from a recurrence of a gall bladder ailment.

LOUIS AND PASTOR ARE MATCHED FOR BOUT IN DETROIT

Detroit, Mich., July 17.—[Special.]—Joe Louis, world's heavyweight boxing champion, will defend his title against Bob Pastor of New York in a twenty round fight Sept. 20 in Briggs stadium, home of the Detroit Tigers, Promoter Mike Jacobs of New York announced here today. It will be the first heavyweight championship fight ever held in Detroit.

Louis and Pastor met in Madison Square Garden, New York, on Jan. 29, 1937, before Joe won the title from Jim Braddock. Louis won the decision after ten rounds in which Pastor's sole strategy was retreat.

MISS INGRAM'S 82 WINS MEDAL IN DISTRICT GOLF

Ellamae Williams Second; Match Play Today.

Virginia Ingram, Sunset Ridge, defending Chicago Women's District Golf association champion, won the medal yesterday in qualifying play for the 1939 tournament, in which 120 competed at LaGrange Country club. Ellamae Williams, Medinah, new state champion was runner-up.

Miss Ingram shot 42-40—82 on the par 39-37—76 course, and Miss Williams scored 42-42—84 for second position.

Play Through Heavy Rain.

Practically all play was conducted through a rain that attained downpour proportions frequently. The soaked fairways took much of the length from the shots of all players. Miss Williams made up many strokes that might have been counted as lost because of this condition by using only 27 putts for the entire round.

Mrs. Lillian Zech, Tam o' Shanter, 1937 champion, was one stroke behind Miss Williams with 41-44—85, of which 30 were putts.

Has Putting Troubles.

Complaints over putting troubles were many. Of these that of Eleanor Dudley, Ridge, 1938 state champion, appeared supported by the figures. Miss Dudley didn't do badly on the first nine, taking 17 putts, but she needed 22 coming home to complete her 42-47—89 card. Shirley Ann Johnson, runner-up last year to Miss Ingram, was tied with Miss Dudley with a card of 49-40—89. All other scorers were 90 and above.

The 32 low scorers among the 48 finishers with the lowest handicaps were paired for the match play bracket in the championship flight, opening today.

ROOT PITCHES CHICAGO BACK INTO 3D PLACE

Reynolds' Three Hits Lead Attack.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 17. — The Cubs, who seemed like one little happy family, more than they have anytime since Dizzy Dean addressed the Chicago Association of Commerce on June 20, this afternoon hammered out an 11 to 2 victory over the Dodgers. As a result of the lopsided conquest the Cubs supplanted the Dodgers in third place and advanced to within half a game of second place.

Charley Root, who had ample rest for his assignment, went all the way. He surrendered only eight hits, three of which were grouped after two were out in the sixth for the Dodgers' only runs. Root allowed no hits in the fourth, fifth, seventh, eighth, and ninth innings.

Cubs Get 14 Hits.

The losing pitcher was Whit Wyatt, who won eight straight, three from the Cubs, before suffering his first defeat of the season last Wednesday night. The Cubs made 14 hits off Wyatt, Vito Tamulis, and Tot Pressnell. Every Cub got at least one hit except Captain Bill Herman and he walked twice.

Carl Reynolds had a triple and two singles and Manager Gabby Hartnett had two doubles. Other multiple hit gents were Jim Gleeson and G. Russell, each with a pair of singles.

Wyatt Loses His Grip.

The Cubs, undaunted by three earlier defeats at the hands of Wyatt, 6 to 3, 12 to 2, and 5 to 0, got right after Whit in the first inning. Herman walked with one down, after which Galan singled to center, putting Herman on third. Augie went to second on Almada's throw to third. Gleeson was called out on strikes, but Reynolds lined a single to center, Herman and Galan scoring. Lavagetto threw out Hartnett.

Bartell walked with one out in the second inning, stopped at second on Root's single, then stole third, whence he scored on Hack's sacrifice fly. Herman walked and Wyatt was replaced by Tamulis. Galan fouled to Todd.

Root had to bear down to avert trouble in the home second. Camilli singled to center and was forced by Todd. Durocher flied to Reynolds, but Coscarart doubled to left, Todd stopping at third. Root then struck out Almada.

Root Again Escapes Trouble.

Tamulis and Koy, first up in the third, singled to center. Lavagetto flied to Galan, then for the second time in the game Moore hit into a double play, Herman to Bartell to G. Russell.

The first seven Cubs to face Tamulis failed to get on base, but the eighth, who was Hack, led off the fifth with a single to center. Herman popped to Coscarart and Galan fouled to Lavagetto. Then Hack was caught trying to steal second.

The Cubs got to Tamulis for three runs in the sixth. Gleeson and Reynolds singled. Koy made a two base error, Hartnett doubled and G. Russell and Bartell sacrificed for the runs and a 6 to 0 lead.

Root lost his shutout with two out in the sixth. Moore doubled and scored on Camilli's single. Camilli go to second when Gleeson juggled his hit and scored on a single by Todd.

Knock Out Tamulis in Eighth.

Tamulis was knocked out in the eighth. Reynolds opened with a triple and scored on Hartnett's second double. Pressnell replaced Ta-

DRIVING RAIN IS POOR RECEPTION FOR JOHNSTOWN

Derby Winner Arrives for Arlington Classic.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The big horse is here. Johnstown, present king of the 3 year olds, arrived at Arlington Park yesterday to be greeted by his most dangerous enemy—rain. Johnstown's handlers aren't the least bit worried about the rivals which will go to the post against their famous horse in next Saturday's $45,000 Classic stakes, but they're very much concerned about the weather. If a spell of rain should make the track heavy Johnstown's chances would drop so low that he might not even run.

A sharp wind was whipping sheets of rain across the unloading platform as Johnstown's de luxe express car was brought into the siding yesterday noon. But William Woodward's big bay colt didn't seem the least bit concerned about it. He just stuck his head out and yawned as photographers snapped his picture.

Challedon Is Here.

Then he was led to barn No. 1 and lodged in a stall in the same row as W. L. Brann's Challedon, the horse which conquered him in the mud on Preakness day at Pimlico. Challedon, which arrived Sunday, will be among the starters in the Classic, and wet weather would send his chances up as fast as Johnstown's would go down.

Tommy Driscoll, foreman of the Belair Stud, supervised the shipment of Johnstown. Accepting the weather philosophically, he was just as business like as he was on that sunny morning last May when he brought the big bay colt into Louisville to get ready for his victory in the Kentucky Derby. Johnstown's trainer, Jim Fitzsimmons, and his jockey, Jimmy Stout, will arrive today.

Racing Secretary Robert S. Shelley received a telegram yesterday from Earl Sande, trainer of John Hay Whitney's Heather Broom, saying that this speedy son of The Porter would arrive today. Heather Broom has been brought back slowly from the vacation which followed his victory in the Blue Grass Stakes and his third place in the Kentucky Derby. Sande expects one of his best efforts in the Classic.

Bucking Wins Purse.

Joseph E. Widener's Bucking and W. F. Morgan's Rapid Way won the St. Charles and the Lake Forest purses respectively on yesterday's program.

Bucking, which had scored two previous victories during the meeting, beat five rivals in a six furlong sprint, C. H. Cleary's Whiskover finishing second and Morris Vehon's Smart Trick third.

Rapid Way, which had won three of his five previous starts, beat a field of six other two year olds in handy fashion, working his way up to a contending position on the turn, taking the lead in the stretch and finishing five lengths ahead of Darby Dienst, with Predicate third. Rapid Way paid $5.80, $3.40 and $2.40.

Calumet Farm Gets Jones as New Trainer

Ben Jones, whose resignation as Woolford farm trainer will go into effect at the end of the Arlington Park meeting, will take charge of the Calumet farm horses. This announcement was made yesterday by Warren Wright of Chicago, owner of Calumet farm, which is located near Lexington, Ky.

Frank Kearns, present Calumet trainer, will go east to conduct a public stable at Saratoga and other New York tracks. After a brief vacation at the end of the Arlington meeting, Jones will take up his duties with the Calumet horses at Saratoga.

Jones is generally considered one of the best horsemen in the country. He saddled Lawrin and set him out to win last year's Kentucky Derby. Unerring and Technician, which ran one-two in last Saturday's Classic trial, are among his charges. He has been uniformly successful not only with stake horses but also with thoroughbreds of the cheaper variety.

Kearns, whose home is in the east, has long had a desire to concentrate on racing in that sector.

Herbert M. Woolf, owner of the Woolford farm stable, announced that Ross O. Higdon, will replace Jones. Higdon will dispose of his own horses and take charge of Woolf's at the Washington Park meeting.

BUCKING, taken in hand after being energetically ridden for about five-sixteenths, was in command throughout, vigorous in the stretch, closed in resolute fashion and got up in the last few strides. FELLER FANS 9, BUT YANKS WIN ANYWAY, 3 TO 0

Hadley Holds Indians to 5 Hits in Shutout.

Cleveland, O., July 17.—(AP)—Though he struck out nine of them in the first six innings, the Yankees got to Bob Feller twice when it counted today and, behind the five hit shutout pitching of Bump Hadley, whipped Feller and the Indians, 3 to 0. The triumph gave the Yankees a sweep of the three game series.

With Hadley scattering the Indians' hits, four of them singles, over four innings, and issuing only two bases on balls to Feller's four, the Yanks didn't need to unleash their customary dynamite. They got the winning run in the fifth, when George Selkirk walked, took second on a wild pitch, and scored on Babe Dahlgren's single to center, and then clinched the game in the seventh with two more runs. Reds Win, 4-0; Walters Gets 15th Victory

Boston, Mass., July 17.—(AP)—Behind masterful, four-hit pitching of Bucky Walters, the Cincinnati Reds beat Boston's Bees, 4 to 0, today. It was Walters' 15th victory and his 17th complete game.

For a time it was feared the Reds would lose the services of Ernie Lombardi, their slugging catcher, but what was at first described as a split finger, later proved to be only a split nail.

In winning his 15th game of the season, Walters allowed but two Bees to reach second and none of them saw third. He passed none until the ninth, when the first hitter, Outlaw, batting for MacFayden, drew a walk.

was bleeding and I couldn't get a doctor."

According to one New York version, Diz and his wife reached the hotel at 12:10 a. m. Sunday and ten minutes later the night manager received a telephone summons from Mrs. Dean. The manager, accompanied by a bell boy and Dr. Von Stein, house physician, went up to the room to find Dean bleeding from a gash in the left arm.

Mrs. Dean explained that he had cut himself on the glass top phone table but Diz is supposed to have cut in with a remark, "She threw a lamp at me when I went to the telephone to ask a friend to go down to a night club with me."

Gabby Refuses to Talk.

In New York yesterday Hartnett made no effort to lift the veil of mystery, if there is one to lift. The Cub manager refused to make a statement covering his understanding of the case.

Dean, before leaving New York, is said to have given out the following accounts of the mishap:

1. That he was attacked by an unknown assailant.

2. That he had a fight in a taxi cab with a man who was trying to belittle Hartnett's managerial talents.

3. That he was reaching for the telephone.

4. That he fell out of bed while sound asleep.

5. That he fell through a showcase.

The Great Man Reports.

Dean's first move after his arrival in Chicago was to visit Dr. Davis, who, after examining the cut in which two stitches had been placed by the New York physician, said it was of no consequence, and would heal in three or four days if precautions against infection were taken.

"Why, I can pitch right now," bellowed Dean. "My right arm is O. K. and I've played with worse scratches than this. I can't figure why I was sent home."

Meanwhile, Charles Drake, assistant to P. K. Wrigley, owner of the Cubs, had talked with Hartnett over the long distance phone. Just what information Hartnett furnished isn't known. Drake, in a statement to newspaper men, made light of the whole affair and reported that Wrigley had taken the same view.

mulis and G. Russell singled to right, scoring Hartnett. Bartell doubled to left, scoring Russell, took third on Root's sacrifice and scored on Hack's long sacrifice fly to Almada, which Mel dropped for a two base error.

A single by Gleeson, an error by Lavagetto and G. Russell's hit gave the Cubs their eleventh run in the ninth.

PASSEAU TO PITCH TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 17.—Claude Passeau, banished by umpires in his last two starts, including the first game yesterday, will try again in the final of the Cubs-Dodgers series tomorrow. He will be opposed by Luke Hamlin, who lost a two hit ball game the last time he faced the Cubs when Gabby Hartnett knocked a homer for the only run. The game was played in Chicago a month ago and was Dizzy Dean's last outstanding performance.

Earl Whitehill, Cubs' veteran lefty, has a broken left thumb, x-rays revealed this morning. The injury was suffered in Philadelphia when Earl was hit with a batted ball, but the fracture was not discovered until today. It was Whitehill's second bone fracture since joining the Cubs. He broke an ankle in spring training on Catalina island.

Manager Hartnett received word from Chicago today that the Cubs had purchased a new man for fall delivery. The acquisition is Verne Olsen, a southpaw pitcher with the Tulsa, Okla., team. Olsen won nineteen and lost nine last season and thus far this year has fashioned a record of seven and six.

Lou Chiozza's Leg Broken as Giants Lose to Cards, 4-3

New York, July 17.—(AP)—The Giants, their infield already crippled by the ten-day suspension of Shortstop Billy Jurges, sustained another blow today when Lou Chiozza, No. 1 utility man, was carried off the field with a broken leg in the ninth inning of the St. Louis Cardinals' 4-3 victory over New York.

Chiozza collided with Outfielder Joe Moore after Moore caught a fly ball in short left.

Moore was able to finish the game, but Chiozza was carried off the field on a stretcher and taken to Polyclinic hospital. A preliminary examination showed what appeared to be a double fracture of the left leg. X-rays were to be taken at the hospital.

SCHALK RESIGNS AS INDIANAPOLIS CLUB MANAGER

Indianapolis, Ind., July 17.—[Special.]—The resignation of Ray Schalk as field manager was announced this afternoon by Leo T. Miller, president of the Indianapolis American association club. The resignation of the former star White Sox catcher took effect immediately and Miller announced that the team temporarily would be in charge of Coach Wes Griffin.

No announcement of Schalk's successor was made by Miller. Inability to agree with officials on management of the team was given as the reason for Schalk's resignation. Schalk said he had no immediate plans.

Schalk's resignation came at a time when the Indians were playing their best baseball of the season. Prior to yesterday's double defeat, the club had won seven consecutive games and seventeen out of twenty-three.

Giants Sign Two Rookie Tackles for All-Star Game

Sox Get Their Shot at Boston Today—Twice!

Five games with the Red Sox and four with the Yankees is the schedule facing James Dykes and his ambitious White Sox between today and Sunday. The strenuous program against the two top teams of the American league begins today in Comiskey park with two games against the Red Sox. The teams go through the same procedure tomorrow, then taper off with a single game Thursday. The Yankees are down for single games Friday and Saturday and a double-header Sunday.

The Sox were prevented from trying for their third straight against the Senators yesterday when rain forced postponement of the series' final. Johnny Marcum, the combination pitcher-hitter, who was ready for duty against the Senators, will get one of the assignments today. Jack Knott will be the other Sox starter.

Ducks Unlimited Reports Increase in Season's Hatch

BY BOB BECKER.

Sportsmen in the middle west who are wondering what kind of duck hunting they may expect next fall will get a pretty good idea of prospects from the latest news from the Canadian prairies.

The information is sent by Ducks Unlimited, the organization of American sportsmen and conservationists that is working in the Canadian marshes to grow more waterfowl. A summary of the report follows:

"Indications are that we will have a good hatch this season. Some species show substantial increases, others still on the danger line. Wholesale drying up of prairie waters [leaving millions of stranded ducklings to die] has, so far, been averted. But if rains fail we may expect heavy mortality among ducklings. Cold and wet have killed many birds.

"The hatch is more irregular. Many broods are disappointingly small, especially among pintails, mallards, redhead, and canvasbacks. Despite all this, if timely rains continue through July the duck crop should be big, one of the biggest that has left the prairie provinces in many years."

Ducks Unlimited, the only organization that is in the duck country establishing breeding areas for waterfowl and staying on the job to rescue stranded ducklings, now has more than 1,800 volunteer observers watching the marshes and many hundreds of men at work on projects to grow more ducks and guarantee the future of duck shooting. It is able to rescue ducklings stranded in dried up ponds for as little as 2 cents per duck. The funds for this rescue work is contributed by American duck hunters. Many Illinois sportsmen are coöperating in the movement. The Illinois Sportsmen's league recently made a substantial contribution to Ducks Unlimited.

C. Y. O. FIGHTERS READY FOR BOUTS WITH IRELAND

teur Boxing association, and by approval of the International federation. Judges and referees who are approved by the central association of the A. A. U., of which George Donoghue is president and Roy E. Davis, chairman of the boxing committee, will officiate tomorrow night.

It is unfair to single out any one of the ten international bouts for comment. Each is equally important, but those who are familiar with the personnel of the C. Y. O. squad are backing Cornelius Young to win from the Irish heavyweight, Patrick O'Sullivan. Although O'Sullivan, tall, rugged, and a puncher, is regarded by his teammates as the best heavyweight Ireland has sent to this country, Young is rated equally high. He will be outweighed, but his speed and straight punching are expected to pile up the winning points. The fight will be the windup of the program and it is conceivable it may decide the team championship as the heavyweight battle did last year.

Ingle Beats Nardecchia.

Jimmy Ingle, Irish bantamweight; Myles Doyle, flyweight, and Charles Evenden, welterweight, are other top notch fighters. The fight between Evenden and Savior Canadeo undoubtedly will be the equal of any international bout Chicago has seen.

Ingle's record last year is extraordinary. He was awarded a decision over Guido Nardecchia of Italy and also has beaten Olli Lehtinen of Finland. Frank Bausone must turn in a fine performance if he is to start the C. Y. O. off with a victory tomorrow night.

The Irish boys completed their round of engagements last evening when they were received on the south side at a massmeeting in Davis square, 45th street and Marshfield avenue. The reception was preceded by a parade of bands and societies which started at 55th street and Ashland avenue to the park.

UP OR DOWN?

Investors' Guide: I have been watching stock of a watch company—Bulova—and would be interested to know whether its income last year was up or down. How many shares it has outstanding, its dividend record, the amount it paid out in federal and state taxes, and location of its home office are other things I would like to know about the company. Thank you for any data you can give me.—B. E. W.

Answer: Net income of Bulova Watch company, Inc., decreased in its fiscal year ended March 31. The company reported earnings of $1,400,025, compared with net income of $2,508,288 in the preceding year. About two weeks ago, however, the chairman of the company told stockholders that its business during the current period had shown a substantial increase over that of the corresponding period last year.

Because the products of this company are in the nature of luxury items, its earnings in recent years have fluctuated widely. Manufacturing operations are carried on in both the United States and Switzerland. Here's its income record for the last several years:

Year End. March 31.	Net Income.	Earn. per Com. shr.
1938	2,508,288	7.72
1937	2,643,123	8.14
1936	1,317,269	4.15
1935	387,987	0.77
1933	*1,072,302	*4.54
1932	*193,241	*1.34
1930†	1,558,231	5.04

*Loss. †Fifteen month period.

Bulova Watch company, which recently leased new offices in the International building, Rockefeller Center, New York City, has outstanding 324,881 shares of common stock. This is listed on the "big board." The company's preferred stock was retired in 1936. It has no funded debt. Federal and state taxes paid in the year ended March 31 were $546,690, against $964,418 the year before.

So far during the 1939 calendar year dividends have amounted to $1.50 a share. This compares with a total of $3 a share in the full 1938 calendar year, and $4.50 in 1937. Nothing was paid from 1932 to 1936 inclusive.

BURLINGTON ORIGIN.

Investors' Guide: Can you please confirm some information for me? It's this: The present Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad company was incorporated in Illinois Feb. 12, 1849, as the Aurora branch railroad, and its original line extended from Chicago to Mendota and Aurora, Ill. The company's name was changed in 1852 to Chicago and Aurora railroad and again in 1855 to the present title. Is this right?—A. E. K.

Answer: Yes.

STOCKS SURGE AHEAD ON CREST OF BUYING WAVE

Market Strongest in Four Months.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 17.—Stocks staged their strongest and broadest market in about four months today. A series of buying waves forced the high speed ticker several minutes behind.

Gains in active issues ranged from two to more than six points. Volatile issues jumped as much as nine points. The turnover reached 1,750,000 shares as a fresh wave of buying at the close raised prices to their best levels of the day.

Although the list had shown a disposition in the early trading to resume last week's uptrend, a large part of the advance came on the heels of the American Iron and Steel institute's estimate of the current steel operating rate of 56.4 per cent of capacity.

Other Factors in Rise.

The apparent calm on the European political front and the setbacks suffered by the administration last week at the hands of congress on its neutrality and Tennessee Valley authority policies were characterized by observers as providing a constructive background for today's booming market.

Grudging acceptance in Wall street of the likelihood of resumed federal spending on a large scale also figured in the decisions of operators to buy stocks, it was asserted. Belated short covering was ascribed as another factor in the sharp upturn.

All sections of the list shared handsomely in the rise, with leadership centering in industrial shares. After knocking at the "140" door all last week, the Dow-Jones average for thirty representative issues today climbed 4.70 points to close at 142.58. The rail group made an average gain of 1.65. The utility section closed at 25.25, up .83.

Chrysler Advances 6½.

Chrysler was the star performer among representative stocks. It sold at 82 for a net gain of 6½ points. United States Steel hit the 50 mark, up 2¾ points. United States Rubber rose 4¼ points to 46⅞.

Other substantial gainers included Bethlehem Steel, up 3½; Youngstown Sheet and Tube, 2¼; General Motors, 2⅜; Goodyear, 3¼; Goodrich, 1⅜; Montgomery Ward, 3½; Sears-Roebuck, 1; Texas corporation, 2⅜; Kennecott, 2¼; Phelps Dodge, 4¼; Standard Oil of New Jersey, 1½, and General Electric, 1⅜.

Loft took volume laurels, the stock rising 1½ points to 14⅜. Du Pont featured the high priced and volatile shares with a jump of 9¼ points. United States Gypsum, up 8½; Johns Manville, up 3½; Allied Chemical, up 3; J. I. Case, up 3, and Westinghouse, up 6½, were other high fliers.

Rail stocks came in for their share of attention. Gains exceeding a point were contributed by New York Central, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific and Illinois Central. Advances of between 2 to about 4 points were scored by Southern Railway, Chesapeake and Ohio, Union Pacific, and Great Northern preferred.

Public utility issues continued to attract improved attention. North American company stood out with a gain of 1½ points.

BONDS RISE SHARPLY

New York, July 17.—(AP)—Bonds advanced sharply today in the biggest market session in three and one-half months. Gains of two and three points were common throughout the list.

Transactions totaled $7,765,500 face value—the largest volume since March 31—compared with $4,954,200 last Friday and $1,410,200 on Saturday, the smallest Saturday trade since 1918.

Although corporate loans were the feature of the day, heavy transactions in United States treasury issues served to send the government loans ahead as much as 12-32d point. In contrast, foreign government issues were uneven and dull.

Banks, Stock Brokers Plan Wider Market

Larger use of Chicago's financial facilities is being developed as the result of a recent series of conferences between the heads of the principal downtown banks and officials of the Chicago Stock exchange, it was announced yesterday.

Stock exchange officials have already drafted a preliminary program by the banks, the exchange, and its members. This plan is the basis for a program to broaden the service of financing facilities in the middle west to investors, industry, and commerce of the area.

The series of conferences was suggested by the stock exchange, and definite steps were outlined for each of the participating groups.

Several Banks Join Program.

The banks taking part in the program are the American National, City National, Continental Illinois, First National, Harris Trust, and the Northern Trust company.

As its part of the program the stock exchange agreed to carry out three major points. These are:

[1] To retain its present rules on maintaining a transfer agency and registration facilities in Chicago, and to urge corporations with dually listed securities to establish transfer agencies and registrars here as trading volume warants.

[2] To urge exchange members with offices here to make larger use of Chicago banking facilities.

[3] To work with banks and underwriting houses in a public relations program to increase the importance of the Chicago financial community.

Program for Banks.

The program outlined for the participating banks covers four major steps. These are:

[1] To give preference to the Chicago market in dually listed odd lot orders and in dually listed full lot orders if the Chicago market is equal to or better than other markets.

[2] Constructive study, along with the stock exchange, of securities listed here from the standpoint of marketability and value for collateral purposes.

[3] To equalize differences between Chicago and New York which previously worked against the maximum use of Chicago bank facilities by members of the Chicago Stock exchange.

[4] To coöperate with the exchange and underwriting houses in public relations activities designed to enhance Chicago's financial position.

Appointment of conference committees from the banks and the exchange to consider means of accomplishing the program has also been suggested by the exchange.

$5,650,000 BONDS OF WATER FIRM PUT ON MARKET

Offering will be made today of $5,650,000 first mortgage 4 per cent bonds and 28,000 shares of 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock of the California Water and Telephone company.

The bonds, which are due in 1969, are being offered by a group headed by Blyth & Co., Inc., at 103¼. The preferred stock is being offered by a group headed by E. H. Rollins & Sons, Inc., at $25 a share. Proceeds from the sale of the securities will be used for redemption purposes.

A banking group headed by W. C. Langley & Co. offered a new issue of 297,077 shares of 4½ per cent preferred $100 par value cumulative stock of the West Penn Power company, at $110 a share plus accrued dividends from July 15. The offering is subject to the prior rights of holders of the company's 7 per cent and 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock to exchange their holdings for the new shares.

EMPLOYE BONUS OF WESTINGHOUSE 10 PCT. IN JULY

The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company yesterday announced its employé bonus payment in July will be 10 per cent, the highest this year. The July bonus is based upon earnings for the three preceding months, which averaged $1,327,544 a month.

In June the bonus was 7 per cent, in May it was 5 per cent, in April it was 3 per cent, and last January it was only 1 per cent. The bonus is paid employés under the company's adjusted compensation plan.

FEDERAL BUYING PROPS SAGGING PRICES OF EGGS

In its effort to prop sagging wholesale egg prices, the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation yesterday bought 211,200 dozens of cash eggs, including 148,860 dozens at Chicago. The heavy federal purchasing stimulated buying of futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange, where October eggs finished ¼ cent a dozen higher at 19¼ cents. The contract was up ¼ cent in midsession, but best prices were not maintained.

November butter closed unchanged at 23¾ cents a pound.

Jones Denies RFC Dictates to Railroads

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 17.—Federal Loan Administrator Jesse Jones today denied that the Reconstruction Finance corporation, of which he formerly was chairman, has dictated policies to any railroads and especially to the Chicago and Eastern Illinois.

In his first press conference since assuming his new job as head of the federal loan agency, Jones also took occasion to bolster the weak support which he gave the 3½ billion dollar spending-lending bills when he testified on Capitol hill last week. New Dealers plainly had been alarmed over the effect Jones' testimony might have on disposal of the bills at this session.

Admits "Some Discussion."

Concerning the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad, Jones admitted that there had been "some discussion" when the RFC heard that a change in the carrier's management was contemplated. The RFC has a stake in the company.

"We understand now there will be no change," Jones said. "We have not dictated the policies of any road. However, we thought we might have to consider that subject in roads where we are the principal creditor."

Jones told reporters that he believed immediate enactment of the lending bill was desirable because it would take much time to get the program in operation. As head of the lending agency, which coördinates loan agencies previously separated, Jones will be responsible for direction of the new program, along with the new federal works agency.

"Self-Liquidation" Stressed.

In his testimony on the bill before the senate banking and currency committee last Friday Jones merely said that if loans were properly made the new program could be self-liquidating. "Self-liquidation" is regarded as the sales point which President Roosevelt and his strategists have raised in hopes of selling the program to congress and the country.

When during the hearing Friday Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic majority leader and sponsor of the senate bill, observed that he did not want the government to make money out of the "self-liquidating" program, Jones quickly replied:

"Don't worry; the government won't make any money out of this program."

Deplore His Cool Support.

That statement is said to have worried New Dealers, who deplored Jones' lack of enthusiasm. They still believe that it was Jones' curse of faint praise on the Mead bill for loans to small business which has delayed its enactment at this session.

They hurriedly arranged to have Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. testify on the lending bill this week to offset the damaging testimony by Jones. Morgenthau said today at his press conference that he will go up to Capitol hill tomorrow and "enthusiastically" urge enactment of the lending program before congress adjourns.

Morgenthau quickly corrected reporters who referred to the program as "lending" or "spending." He will testify on the "self liquidating" bill, he reminded them.

Ready to Back Extra Budget.

Morgenthau is willing to accept the extraordinary budget which will provide for the "self liquidating" program because it will help remove pressure from the regular budget, where constant deficits have about brought the public debt to the saturation point of 45 billion dollars, the legal maximum.

Jones indicated the railway equipment section of the program, for which 500 millions would be allocated, will operate on a plan whereby the railroads would purchase equipment from the government on an instalment basis similar to instalment financing of automobiles.

Jones formally assumed his new job with swearing-in ceremonies today, although he actually took over the post July 1. Emil Schram, member of the RFC board, was sworn in to succeed Jones as RFC chairman.

$44,200,000 OF GOLD ARRIVES IN NEW YORK IN DAY FROM ABROAD

Foreign gold valued at $44,200,000 was reported to have arrived yesterday at New York. This was one of the largest totals for incoming shipments for a single day in recent weeks. The liner Queen Mary docked from Southampton, England, with an estimated $12,200,000 in gold bars.

The New York Federal Reserve bank reported the engagement of $2,977,000 of gold in England and $119,000 in Hongkong for shipment to this country.

Although interest in the flow of gold to this country was renewed with the reported heavy shipments, the treasury's buying price for foreign silver remained unchanged at 35 cents an ounce.

This is the same price which was posted throughout last week and compares with a price of 42 cents an ounce on June 26.

In foreign exchange trading at New York the Dutch guilder advanced in terms of the dollar. The guilder finished 0.14 cent higher at 53.36 cents. The British pound sterling at $4.68¼ and the French franc at 2.65 cents were unchanged. The Belgian belga closed slightly higher and the Swiss franc fractionally lower.

HAMILTON BANK VOTES TO PAY OFF DEPOSITS, CLOSE

Stockholders of the Hamilton State bank, 3916 Broadway, voted yesterday to liquidate. Prevailing low rates of interest obtainable on investments provided the incentive for liquidation, it was said.

The bank will stop taking deposits after July 31. Officials of the bank yesterday said total deposits at present amount to about $2,070,000.

The officials added that approximately $2,000,000 in cash is on hand, and that depositors wishing to withdraw their money at any time may do so.

The bank, incorporated in 1920, is a member of the federal reserve system. Its capitalization is $200,000. No dividends have been paid on the $100 par stock since 1932.

STEEL OUTPUT RISES TO 56.4 PCT., NEW 1939 HIGH

Steel operations this week are scheduled at the highest level so far this year, the American Iron and Steel institute reported yesterday. Production will jump 6.7 points to 56.4 per cent of capacity.

Although some upturn this week had been expected in steel circles the size of the gain was surprising. The operating rate is the highest since the week beginning Dec. 12, 1938, when it was 57.6 per cent.

DU PONT PROFITS FOR QUARTER UP TO $1.73 A SHARE

Westinghouse Also Boosts Earnings.

E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. yesterday issued a report which indicated that its earnings in the quarter ended June 30 equaled $1.73 a share on the chemical company's common stock. This compared with 71 cents a share in the June quarter of 1938, and $1.55 a share in the first quarter of 1939.

The quarterly earnings were indicated by a comparison of the company's report for the first quarter and the six month report, which was issued yesterday. Earnings in the first half of 1939 equaled $3.28 a common share, against $1.36 a share in the first six months of 1938.

Westinghouse Earns More.

The indicated profit of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company in the June quarter also increased, totaling $3,982,635 compared with $2,469,372 in the second quarter of 1938. The 1939 three month figure equaled $1.49 a share on the combined 7 per cent preferred and common stock, against 92 cents a year earlier. In the six months ended June 30, Westinghouse Electric earned $6,338,785, against $4,500,602 in the first half of last year.

Crown Zellerbach corporation and subsidiaries reported that consolidated net profit for the fiscal year ended April 30, 1939, totaled $5,015,390, or $1.04 a share on the common stock. This compared with $6,211,414, or $1.57 a common share, in the preceding year. The company informed stockholders that its total production of paper and paper products in the latest year approximated 93 per cent of the preceding year's output.

Celotex June Net $190,000.

Celotex corporation's June profit amounted to $190,000, compared with $62,000 in the June quarter a year ago. Income for the latest period was before federal income taxes, for which the company claims statutory deductions.

Sunshine Mining company, the nation's largest silver producer, showed a net profit for the June quarter of this year of $729,862, equal to 49 cents a share. This compared with $949,391, or 64 cents a share, in the second quarter of 1938.

Senate Votes Wage Control on Contracts

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 17.—With little debate and without a record vote, the senate today passed the Walsh-Healy bill, which empowers the secretary of labor to regulate the wages, hours and working conditions of all enterprises which supply or perform services for the federal government.

The existing Walsh-Healy public contracts act of 1936 applies to all contracts in excess of $10,000, while the bill passed by the senate today extends the regulations to all contracts and all sub-contracts in excess of $4,000. It provides for a three year blacklist by all government agencies of any business establishment found by the secretary of labor to have violated any provision of the act or found by a court to have violated the Wagner labor relations act.

House Rejected Similar Bill.

The bill now goes to the house. Last year the senate passed a similar bill and it was killed by the house rules committee after John L. Lewis, dictator of the congress of industrial organizations, had ensconced himself in the office of the speaker of the house, William B. Bankhead, and attempted to crack the whip over the heads of defiant congressmen. The bill is expected to meet a similar fate in the house this year.

Senator Robert A. Taft [R., O.] protested against blacklisting manufacturers and other business establishments for violating the labor relations act. The labor relations act, he said, was so vague that employers could not be certain whether or not they had complied with its provisions respecting collective bargaining.

Senator David I. Walsh [D., Mass.] explained that the blacklist would apply only to firms found "in a final adjudication by the appropriate court" to have violated the Wagner act.

Taft Accepts Amendment.

Senator Taft withdrew his own amendment in favor of one by Senator John A. Danaher [R., Conn.], which authorizes the secretary of labor to remove from the three year blacklist any establishment found to be complying with the law. The Danaher amendment was accepted.

The bill authorizes the secretary of labor to prescribe minimum wages for any contractor or sub-contractor doing business with the government, such minimum in no case to be lower than the applicable minimum required by the fair labor standards act of 1938. It provides that no employé of the contractor or sub-contractor shall be permitted to work more than eight hours in any one day, without overtime pay, or more than forty hours in any week.

SWIFT IS VICTOR OVER WALLACE ON PRICE POLICY

Court Upsets 'Cease and Desist' Order.

Swift & Co., largest packing company in the nation, yesterday won a victory over Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture. The Circuit Court of Appeals granted a Swift petition that a "cease and desist" order issued by Wallace be set aside. The action cleared Swift of unlawful practices charges. The court also indicated that Wallace had exceeded his powers in issuing the cease and desist order, which involved certain price discount and credit policies of Swift.

Secretary Wallace. His order overruled.

Judges J. Earl Major, Walter E. Treanor, and Otto Kerner of the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals gave the opinion.

The case was an outgrowth of an investigation started in 1936 by the department of agriculture on certain Swift trade practices in the New York area.

Most Charges Dropped Earlier.

The department originally listed eight complaints against Swift, later added two and ultimately dropped all except three, which were the subject of the cease and desist order. In

State Street in 1889 Looking North from Madison Street

Chicago in 1889! A city building for the future . . . restless with the energy of a million forward-looking people. This was the Chicago to which The Northern Trust Company first opened its doors. And the community welcomed the new institution. For it recognized that here a rare friendliness was combined with strict adherence to sound banking principles.

1939 finds Chicago three times bigger and many times busier than a half century ago. But the quality of neighborly cooperation and the practice of individualized service are just as characteristic of The Northern Trust Company as they were on "opening day." The steady growth of this institution has brought no deviation from the principles of the founders. The Northern Trust Company, in this year of its golden anniversary, wishes to pledge itself to a continuation of those worthy principles.

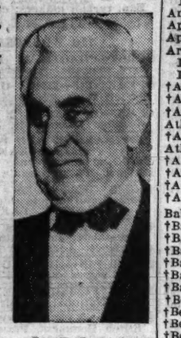
FDIC HITS BACK AT ECCLES' BID FOR NEW POWER

Denies Duplication in Bank Examining Functions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 17.—The annual report of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation for 1938, issued yesterday, contained strong criticisms of bids by Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the federal reserve board, for more power.



Leo T. Crowley, head of FDIC.

Leo T. Crowley is chairman of the FDIC. His agency's report denied its activities cause an overlapping bank supervisory function, as charged by Eccles. The tone of the report was regarded by observers as harmonizing with the view of Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator, and other government banking officials who heretofore have resisted Eccles and his banking theories.

Reserve Board Urges Change.

In the annual report sent to congress in January and again in a recommendation sent to the banking and currency committees of congress in April, the federal reserve board, presumably at the dictation of Eccles, charged there was duplication of bank examining and other supervisory functions. It urged consolidation of such supervision into one agency.

Officials of the FDIC, of the treasury, which holds jurisdiction over the controler of the currency, and of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, were incensed on these occasions but held their tongues. They let themselves loose, however, in the FDIC report.

The reserve board had claimed a need for relationship between bank examination and credit approval.

Eccles Foes Fear Tinkering.

Banking officials in the opposition camp saw in this a bid for credit tinkering by Eccles, who is the author of the administration's deficit spending policy. Opponents of Eccles have expressed the view, privately, that manipulation of credit by examination rules would endanger bank depositors.

On this the FDIC report said:

"Commercial banks have operated under the supervision of state or federal agencies for more than a century. Supervision was established primarily to protect creditors of banks. The Federal Deposit Insurance corporation was created in 1933 for the same purpose following the most severe crisis in banking affairs that had occurred during the century.

Says FDIC Bears Burden.

"The FDIC has a more direct interest in the prevention of bank failures than any other bank supervisory authority for the reason that the corporation must bear the financial burden resulting from such failures.

"It is no part of the function of bank supervision to exert pressure upon a banker to extend credit when he has substantial doubt regarding the wisdom of such extension.

"It is not conducive to the maintenance of a competitive business system characterized by freedom of enterprise, or to the maintenance of a banking system characterized by independent and impartial decisions in extending credit, to permit groups of persons or interests to secure control of sources of banking funds which they may use for their own interests, to the detriment of the interests of depositors and of competing businesses."

Discusses Duplication Claim.

No names were mentioned, but the direction of these barbs was unmistakable. Taking up the subject of overlapping functions, the FDIC said:

"There has been much misunderstanding with regard to the extent of duplication in bank supervision. While there are fifty-two authorities engaged in the supervision of insured banks, the jurisdiction of each of forty-nine of them is restricted to its own state or territory, and there is no duplication among them. The remaining three are federal agencies—the controler of the currency, the board of governors of the federal reserve system, and the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation. There is practically no duplication in the examinations conducted by the federal bank supervisory agencies."

Morgenthau, when asked for comment on the opposing opinions today, said he has not received any complaints on duplication of functions and felt that real progress has been made on bank examinations.

BEG YOUR PARDON

It was reported incorrectly in a New York dispatch in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE that publication of the Coronet magazine had been discontinued. The statement was made in a story reporting a change in the corporate title of Esquire-Coronet, Inc., publishers of the magazine, to Esquire, Inc. Alfred Smart, secretary and treasurer of the publishing company, said yesterday that the change in the corporate name was made to give the company full protection for the name Esquire. The company, he said, has no intention of discontinuing Coronet magazine.

MR. SO AND SO,
So and So Company,
Chicago, Illinois or elsewhere.

DEAR MR. SO AND SO:

I said: "Tom, nowadays you cannot get a job without experience."

Tom said: "Experience! How are you going to get it without a job?"

"Tom," said I, "you are only twenty-one years old; you have an honorable discharge from the U. S. Army; you're big and husky; you know how to take and execute orders, and in the Army you had to do any sort of work required. Your record is excellent, but to prove you are good and worth more than any prospective employer's investment in time and money, you should be willing to work one month free with any substantial firm starting in on the ground floor."

Tom said: "Okay dad, I have money saved to see me through. How and when do I start?"

Mr. Employer, answering this question should interest you.
